

Victoria Remembers Needy with $24.75 Each

Citizens of Greater Victoria who find themselves with spirits ebbing this Christmas have once again been given a glow of warmth by the knowledge that fellow citizens do care and have not forgotten.

The Daily Colonist Christmas 500 Fund has again found most people in Greater Victoria have not only not forgotten—but also are willing to put their thoughts into deeds and help others who sometimes find life's road a rocky one. The fund total, which reached $12,379.19 when the books were closed at 5:30 p.m. yesterday, means each of Greater Victoria's 500 most needy families will receive $24.75. Cheques for that amount are in the mail today—gifts from fellow citizens, tangible wishes for a Merry Christmas. The 500 Fund was born for the use of citizens of Greater Victoria to help any of their fellows who need a lift at Christmas. The thousands of individuals and the many groups who helped through the fund will not know the people they helped—but then they just wanted to do something for them. During the drive, some of the needy families were interviewed and their stories written. It would be impossible to write the stories of all 500 but the few that were written give an idea of the unfortunate circumstances. Continued on Page 8

OTTAWA (CP) — The "most important and most successful" round of Columbia River treaty negotiations with the United States since a new series began last April was reported Friday night by External Affairs Minister Martin.

Federal, British Columbia and U.S. negotiators worked Friday on draft documents for the sale of a big block of B.C. power and the financing of three storage dams in B.C. by these payments.

More talks will be held next week and again about Jan. 9 in Washington, Mr. Martin said after a hard-driving day begun

Firesetting Frustrates Firemen

HAMILTON (CP) — City firemen met with something less than blazing success Friday when they tried to demonstrate what serious fire hazards Christmas trees are.

With reporters and photographers in attendance, the firemen set small pots of burning gasoline beneath an evergreen and stepped back to await the conflagration.

Nothing happened, however, so a little more gasoline was added.

This didn't prompt combustion either, so a few more pots were set under the tree.

Wild cheering broke out among the newspaper men. A flame had flickered up the Christmas tree.

"I would have to say that the test was inconclusive," a fire department official commented.

'Stickmen' Stick in Craw

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons turned a glassy-eyed stare Friday on the "stickmen" symbol devised for the 1967 world fair in Montreal.

It reacted with words such as "monstrosity," "weird" and "sickening," before tossing the symbol out and ordering a new one to be designed before the end of 1964. (See also Page 14.)

"A combination of a tractor wheel and a bunch of power poles," said Bert Leboe (SC—Cariboo).

"A beatnik type of symbol," said Gerald Regan (L—Halifax). State Secretary Pickersgill said he hoped it would be a lesson to governments not to submit art to legislation.

He doubted if there would be a national gallery if MPs had to decide on its contents. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was the first to take aim at the symbol during debate on a bill which, among other things, declares a copyright on the symbol. He eventually moved an amending motion to wipe it out. He called it "a monstrosity — an artistic monstrosity."

"It's difficult to understand a series of angles chasing one another in regular array around a circle." Mr. Diefenbaker, with a

'Hitler's Little Helper' Brags of Lethal Skill

Twenty-two former officials at the infamous concentration camp in Poland, dubbed "Hitler's little helpers," have been accused of scores of specific crimes outlined in an indictment four times as long as the Bible.

About 40 armed policemen guarded the huge chamber in Frankfurt's city hall, jammed with the defendants and their counsel, court officials and prosecution attorneys, witnesses and newsmen. An armed policeman sat beside each of the accused.

Each in turn was required to give the court a brief account of his history. Most gave excuses—fidgeting hands and twitching muscles showing their nervousness.

But William Boger, 56, former Gestapo top sergeant described by the prosecution as the "cruellest guard," while

Nazi Hate 'Filling' Canada

TORONTO (UPI) — A prominent Jewish rabbi charged Friday "the Nazi invasion of the minds of Canadians has reached its highest peak since the end of the war."

Rabbi Abraham Feinberg, rabbi emeritus of Toronto's Holy Blossom Temple and national vice-president of the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, said Canada was becoming a centre for neo-Nazism.

"During the 20 years of my Toronto residence, I have never received so much anti-semitic abuse in the mail as I have during recent weeks, the rabbi said.

He said Canada, particularly Toronto, was becoming a centre in the "new international network of Nazism which seeks again to plunge the world into violence and war."

He suggested the RCMP launch an investigation into the increased incidents of anti-semitism, rather than investigating the political leanings of university students.

"Perhaps the time has come for the guardians of our security to leave young college radicals alone, and smell out the purveyors of hate — whether the particular brand be anti-semitism, Negro prejudice, Catholic baiting or venomous mudslinging in the French-English conflict."

"Breeds of hate are enemy No. 1 in Canada."

Police Trio Crime Plotters?

OTTAWA (CP)—Inspector of Detectives Borden Hobbs and two other senior detectives were suspended by the Ottawa Police Commission Friday pending an investigation into charges that they helped plan a break-in at the home of an Ottawa man.

Magistrate Glenn Strike said a provincial police inspector will be in Ottawa sometime today to investigate charges that the three detectives helped plan a break-in at the home of Benjamin Achbar.

ENTERED HOME

The charge was made in magistrate's court Thursday by 33-year-old Royal Bard of South Hull, Que., who along with two others was nabbed by police when he entered the Achbar home.

Bard said in court that police helped him plan the crime in order to trap two other men. Bard, who had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary but Magistrate Joseph Sauve said he would withdraw the prison sentence if Bard's story is true.

BAIL SLASHED

Florian Lemieux, 36, Jean Guy Guindon, 30, both of Ottawa, the other men arrested in the Achbar home by police, were remanded in court Friday after pleading not guilty to charges of breaking and entering. Magistrate Sauve cut their bail from $10,000 to $100.

11 Fishermen Lost in Storm

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Antara news agency said Friday an Indonesian fishing boat capsized in heavy weather off the coast of Central Java last week with loss of 11 lives. The agency said one man of the 12 aboard was rescued after drifting a week on a plank.

'Delicate Factors' Past, Says Ottawa

IMMIGRANT WINS FIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Favreau announced in the Commons Friday night he has decided to allow Irene Rebrin to remain in Canada as a landed immigrant.

He said the move does not imply that any previous decision was improper in the case of the 36-year-old blonde lecturer in Slavonic languages at the University of British Columbia.

Miss Rebrin, born in China of White Russian parents, originally entered Canada in 1958 and was ordered deported in January, 1959.

LEGAL BATTLE

She subsequently lost a two-year legal battle in the Supreme Court of Canada against the federal deportation order.

Miss Rebrin, however, was allowed to stay in Canada because of other pending court actions in which she was involved, and also because there was no place to send her.

Meanwhile, the deportation case was again reviewed and Mr. Favreau announced Friday night his decision to let her stay as a landed immigrant.

DELICATE FACTOR

The immigration minister said the case was "relatively complex" and involved "certain delicate factors."

"The review of the case is now complete," he said. "I have decided that Miss Rebrin should be admitted as a landed immigrant."

Miss Rebrin was described in the Commons as a security risk by both former prime minister Diefenbaker and immigration minister Ellen Fairclough after Miss Rebrin was arrested in April, 1960, for not leaving Canada voluntarily under the deportation order.

VISITOR'S VISA

The lecturer first arrived in Canada from Brazil on a visitor's visa that subsequently expired.

The deportation order was dated Jan. 22, 1959, and described her as a member of a class of persons prohibited entry to Canada as landed immigrants.

The deportation order was appealed through the British Columbia Supreme and Appeal courts and finally before the Supreme Court of Canada.

FACTS AS NOW

Mr. Favreau said the case had been decided on the basis of facts as they exist now. The decision should not be taken as reflecting on the previous decision.

He said he is aware that Miss Rebrin has a court case for libel pending against somebody and added that his decision

'Mother, Close Eyes, I Have a Surprise'

WILMINGTON, Calif. (UPI)—How an 18-year-old college psychology student followed a seven-point plot to kill his mother and father and make it appear as murder-suicide was described yesterday by police.

Police said they would seek a murder complaint against Fred Kipp Bassett, student at Long Beach State College, after they listened to his statement of admission and read the "script."

His plot called for him to "put G in M's hand," after the shooting during which he was to "wear plastic hood, leather gloves for shot."

"I'd been planning to kill them for years," detectives quoted him as saying.

"At first I was going to use a rolling pin. Then I thought an icepick would be better. I finally decided on a gun."

The death Thursday of Fred Bassett Sr., 47, and Mrs. Margaret Bassett, 43, at first were described by police as a murder-suicide. Police at first said Mrs. Bassett had shot her husband and then herself.

NOTE GAVE PLANS

But a note was found in the son's room outlining the murder plans.

The suspect, jailed on suspicion of murder, said his father had been home all day working on insurance business in his study.

"When mother came home at 3:45 p.m., I told her to go into the bedroom and close her eyes, that I had a surprise for her," he told detectives. "I shot her in the head."

Canadians In Distress

BOSTON (UPI)—A 131-foot disabled Canadian fishing vessel is reported riding out a southwest gale in the North Atlantic about 500 miles off Rockland, Maine, while awaiting assistance from a U.S. Coast Guard cutter.

cannot be used for or against anyone in that libel case.

The minister's announcement was welcomed by NDP Leader Douglas and H. W. Herridge (NDP-Kootenay West).

"I'm sure the minister has lent beginning," Mr. Favreau made many people in British Columbia happy," Mr. Herridge said.

Mr. Douglas said many people are pleased at "the excellent action involving Miss Rebrin."

The action involves a claim for damages by Miss Rebrin against the Toronto Telegram, its publisher John Bassett and its parliamentary reporter Peter Dempson.

A native of Peking, Miss Rebrin went to Brazil with her family following the Communist take over of China.

CPR CASHIER

While awaiting the outcome of her initial appeal to former Immigration Minister Fairclough against the deportation order, she worked as an assistant in a Toronto library and as a CPR cashier at Banff. In the fall of 1959, she got the lecturer's post at the University of British Columbia.

When Miss Fairclough dismissed the appeal in January, 1960, students and staff at the university asked the government to allow Miss Rebrin to stay, but in April, 1960, she was arrested. Lawyers obtained her release but her application to the B.C. Supreme Court to have the deportation order quashed was refused by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris.

LOST APPEAL

An appeal to the B.C. Appeals Court against the Supreme Court ruling was lost in July, 1960, and the case then was referred to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Miss Rebrin's appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada attacked the deportation order on two main grounds. They were that the order did not set out the place to which she was to be deported and that her rights under the Canadian Bill of Rights had been infringed.

at 9 a.m. and continued through lunch.

"We will now be engaged in revising those documents which are necessarily voluminous, dealing with a complicated problem," Mr. Martin said. These would be submitted to the three governments at an early date.

ASKED COMMENT

Mr. Martin, heading the Canadian negotiators, was asked to comment on reports of a size of the U.S. payment for a block of power owned by B.C. These reports ranged around $400,000,000 to $420,000,000 or more.

TIED BUT HAPPY

"These statements bore little resemblance . . . to reality," said Mr. Martin, who said he was "tired but very happy over Friday's results."

Representing B.C. were Ray Williston, minister of lands, forests and water resources, and Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Ivan White, U.S. minister here, led the Americans who also included Charles Luce, administrator of the federal Bonneville Power Authority. These same men talked here last week for three days in working out recommendations to be submitted to the three governments. Friday's meeting was preceded by technical-level discussions here.

WONT SPECULATE

Mr. Martin and other spokesmen declined to speculate on how long it might be before the governments approve the negotiating recommendations. Participants also have included the 10 or so Pacific northwest power utilities lined up to acquire the B.C. power up for sale—about 1,300,000 kilowatts capacity.

The sale contract's life is believed to be about 25 years.

saying he was "sorry" for the inmates, boasted of his service record.

"I was responsible for preventing escapes, and while I had that job Auschwitz had the lowest escape rate of all German concentration camps," Boger said, raising his pale face to stare at the judges.

SUNDAY BEST

The three professional judges and the six lay jurors, including three housewives in their Sunday best, stared back. There was a moment of almost shocked silence.

Then presiding judge Hans Hofmeyer asked Boger about the 3,000 inmates removed just before the Soviet army overran Auschwitz in the closing days of the war.

Boger said he and a few other guards and armed trustees marched the inmates westward across the Harz Mountains.

JUST TOOK OFF

"Only one was shot in my presence—a lot of them just took off," he said.

But he agreed it was a "death march."

The ex-Gestapo man said he escaped from his Allied captors after the war and "I always thought of that as an act of heaven."

He said he settled near the south German town of Crellsheim and claimed local residents, including police, protected him.

"That was proof the Germans can stick together," he said.

Boger told the court he still remembered his SS number. "I'm not very proud of it but it was something special."

straight face, assured the House "I'm not just being jocular." It would "bring ridicule on Canada."

It contained nothing characteristic of Canada. He suggested insertion of a maple leaf in the middle—a proposal supported by several other members.

It fell to Works Minister Deschatelets to defend the symbol, devised by artist Julien Hebert and already approved by the world fair board of directors.

He said it is based on the oldest primitive symbol for man—a vertical line with two diagonal lines stretching upwards to represent arms. The artist had lined pairs of these symbols—"to denote friendship and brotherhood"—and arranged them in eight pairs in a circle to indicate the shape of the earth. Mr. Deschatelets termed it

"well imagined and well thought out."

He admitted the first time he saw it, he had the same reaction as Mr. Diefenbaker. "But one gets used to it."

Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) and Edward Nasserden (PC—Rosthern) both declared they saw the letters "M" and "W" in the symbol. They protested this would be taken to mean the Montreal world fair when it was in fact a Canadian world fair.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) got agreement on having the symbol printed in the Hansard record of Commons debates so readers would know what was being discussed.

The Senate passed the bill through its three readings in a 30-minute sitting later in the afternoon.

Transplanting of Organs Still Difficult Process

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Would it be possible for female organs to be removed from one person and transplanted in another who has had a hysterectomy, so the latter could have a child? The second person I have in mind is under 10 and already has had three children, but she recently underwent a hysterectomy. —MRS. V. G.

It may be possible but as yet I am not aware of this having been done. From letters I receive I am aware that there is a great deal of interest and misunderstanding about the transplantation of organs.

TWINS, RELATIVES

We read about a kidney being transplanted, but fail to realize that this happens most usually from one twin to another, or from one close relative to another.

We read about "eye banks," but do not notice that an entire eye never has been successfully transplanted, but only the cornea, a very small part of the covering of the eyeball.

Organs cannot be transplanted from one person to another and remain there, because the body has the protective ability of rejecting anything which is strange to it. With identical twins, they are so much alike that the body accepts such transplants. This is true to a lesser degree with fraternal twins, or very close relatives.

DONE IN ANIMALS

It is now possible to transplant organs in animals (such as a lung from one dog to another) but when the transplants succeed, even for some months, it is only with the use of extremely powerful drugs which inactivate or paralyze the factors in the animal's body which ordinarily rejects foreign tissues or flesh.

We may someday be able to transplant organs freely and successfully, but we can't do it now, except in the most unusual cases.

Dear Dr. Molner: Should a mild diabetic be impotent? —J. A.

No, if he is, it is from some other cause.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is running a temperature ever a symptom of cancer?—A. J.

Yes. A fever that cannot be explained by the presence of an infection may be an indication of cancer, but some cases (such as cancer of liver or pancreas) may require extensive tests before the basic trouble can be identified.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have what is called Tietze's disease, but have been unable to find out much about it. What causes it? —MRS. B. F.

It is a disorder of one of the upper joints where the ribs attach to the breast bone. The cause is not known, and it frequently subsides spontaneously in a short time. If not, injection of hydrocortisone eases the discomfort. It is not serious.

Legality of Extradition Raised Too Late—Chevrier

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Chevrier, claiming support from his own legal staff, told the Commons Friday he signed the warrant for the extradition of paroled convict John Wasylenchuk to the United States "as I believe every minister of justice would have" under the circumstances.

He added, however, that the legal question of whether a parolee can be extradited did not arise until after he had signed the warrant and the FBI already was taking Wasylenchuk across the border to face robbery and murder charges in Seattle. The minister declined to say whether he knew Wasylenchuk was on parole when he signed the warrant. The Conservative and New Democratic Party opposition continued to claim there was an "injustice" because the Parole Act says a parolee is still under sentence, and the Extradition Act—based on a treaty with the U.S.—says a man under sentence cannot be extradited.

Mr. Chevrier said Justice Department officers have advised him to the contrary. Otherwise, he said, an American or Canadian parolee would be able to cross into the other country, commit a crime, then go back to his own country, and could not be extradited to face trial.

Wasylenchuk, 51, had been sentenced by a Canadian court to life imprisonment for his part in a 1955 Vancouver-area robbery. He was subsequently paroled.

Last fall, the U.S. authorities asked to have him extradited to face robbery and murder charges in connection with a 1954 bank robbery in Seattle, in which a policeman was killed.

HAD ALIBI
After a hearing in B.C. Supreme Court, Wasylenchuk was committed for extradition. The court informed Mr. Chevrier it heard evidence that Wasylenchuk had an alibi, but also evidence connecting him with the Seattle crime.

Mr. Chevrier said Friday he had this court judgment—along with another B.C. court decision rejecting a habeas corpus application on Wasylenchuk's behalf—in front of him when he signed the extradition warrant last Saturday. He said "it is customary, in those circumstances, for the officers to come before me and to advise that this is the kind of warrant that should be signed under the circumstances."

DIDN'T ARISE
He said the legal point of whether a parolee can be extradited did not arise until afterwards.

When Mr. Chevrier contended he acted as any justice minister would have, the statement was immediately challenged by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

NOT JUSTIFIABLE
"I do not think it can be justified in law or in justice, regardless of whether this man (Wasylenchuk) is good or evil," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, contended that the legal opinion about extraditing a parolee was "concocted" after Mr. Chevrier's parliamentary secretary, Donald S. Macdonald (L-Toronto Rosedale), unsuccessfully tried to halt the extradition by phoning the warden at B.C.'s Oakalla Prison.

TELEPHONED WARDEN
Mr. Chevrier confirmed that Mr. Macdonald had in fact telephoned the warden on Wednesday. However, the call was too late. The FBI men already had taken custody of Wasylenchuk and were on their way to the United States with him.

The minister said Mr. Macdonald placed the call after B.C. Liberal Leader Ray Perrault, acting on his own behalf and "on behalf of what he described as a legal committee," phoned Ottawa asking that the extradition be held up until the question about parole could be considered.

Mr. Chevrier said he would have done the same thing as

Mr. Macdonald under the circumstances. He said the whole thing happened in 10 or 15 minutes, before it was possible to get a legal opinion on the point raised by Mr. Perrault on the telephone. The opinion was obtained later.

GIVEN VERBAL OPINION
When asked to table the legal opinion in the Commons, Mr. Chevrier said it was given to him verbally. Therefore there was nothing to lay on the table.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked the government to get a legal opinion on the point from the Supreme Court of Canada "to assure that justice will not be done in the future, and that the injustice already done will be rectified."

Mr. Chevrier said the courts already had committed Wasylenchuk for extradition before he signed the warrant.

U.S. to Stay In Viet Nam

Drug Firm Faces 12 Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the nation's oldest drug firms was accused Friday of hiding research results showing that a new drug for heart patients may have caused sexual changes and other injuries in laboratory animals.

A federal grand jury here returned a 12-count indictment against the William Merrell Co., a division of Richardson-Merrell Inc. of New York. The indictment charged the firm made false reports to the food and drug administration or withheld information in seeking approval to market the drug "Mer/29," designed to reduce the body's production of cholesterol.

The drug was on the market for 22 months and was prescribed by doctors for about 400,000 patients. It was withdrawn from sale by the company in April, 1962, under strong pressure from the FDA.

R. H. Marchbanks, president of the parent firm, denied any intent to deceive the government.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara was reported Friday to have made it clear the war is going so badly in South Viet Nam that the United States may be unable to pull out its troops by the target date of 1965.

Informal American sources said McNamara delivered a personal message to South Viet Nam's junta leaders from President Johnson which in effect erases a previous 1965 deadline for the withdrawal of most American military men from this country.

Before boarding a plane to return to Washington, McNamara said, "I am leaving optimistic as to the progress that can be made during the coming year" in the fight against the Communist Viet Cong.

Sensible Steps

IN MOVING to change Victoria's civic election date from the second to the first Thursday in December, city council has taken a step which may well prove beneficial in drawing more voters to the polls.

Victoria with its private legislation and Vancouver with its city charter are the only exceptions in the province to the first-Thursday rule, and while there may be no particular virtue in conformity as such, there is something to be said for the argument that election interest is apt to be livelier when municipal campaigning reaches a uniform peak. The city voting coming a week after the adjoining municipalities have balloted has an anticlimactic aspect.

More important though the first Thursday of the month is a week further removed from Christmas and its forerunning preoccupation with myriad preparations. Under present circumstances Victoria's elections can come as little as eleven days before Dec. 25. The earlier date is clearly preferable in this respect.

Certainly too the council is wise in calling for new surveys to be made to see if voting can be bolstered practically in other ways—through introduction of district polling stations instead of the single central location, and by provision of free transportation.

It is to be anticipated perhaps that a multi-station study by the same staff will come up with the same conclusions—in favor of the existing system—as on several previous occasions, including the finding that the city's voting compares well with that in municipalities which have the neighborhood balloting.

Victoria, however, is not any other municipality, and such comparisons therefore may not be valid. Nor, especially in view of the dwindling use of bus transportation, can one be much impressed with the claim that because of the radial nature of this system it is easier to vote downtown than in a district polling-place. Hence it might be suggested that no matter the verdict of a new report, the neighborhood voting could well be put to actual test next year. There is ample time now to prepare for it, and still will be if the studies are promptly carried out.

Rough Stuff

THE MANAGER of one of Canada's junior hockey clubs has labelled the Czechoslovakia team now touring this country as "lacking in courage" because while here it doesn't play under Canadian rules.

It might take more courage—moral courage—not to do so.

As the president of the Alberta amateur association has pointed out, the Czech exhibition tour was arranged beforehand to be played under international rules, consistent with international hockey regulations.

The difference which irks the complaining official is that international rules bar the kind of physical checking which abounds in the Canadian game.

In effect this suggests that Canadian teams can only flourish when rough and bruising tactics are allowed. Hockey is no namby-pamby game but TV watchers of the recent NHL donnybrook, which resulted in about $5,000 in fines being levied for fighting and using sticks as clubs, must wonder if mayhem is being substituted for sport.

The belief is that this sort of behavior pleases the fans, so officials and referees are lenient with many instances of roughing bad enough to cripple players perhaps for life.

If this be so Canadian teams had better stay at home and not take part in international competitions. The Canadian hockey image has been badly dented abroad—admittedly because "amateur" provisions prevent the best representative teams from competing—but if brawling is to have priority over sheer skill and sportsmanship then this is a poor lookout for the good name of this country.

It is probably a matter of chagrin that Canada, the home of ice hockey, no longer enjoys Olympic supremacy, and that other nations are now developing a flair for the game that may enable them soon to rank with the best this country can produce. This they have done apparently without resort to the extreme bruising permitted in Canada.

Like it or not Canadian hockey will have to soften its rough stuff if in future it wants to hold its end up with the rest of the hockey-playing nations.

Either that or abdicate from the international realm altogether.

Trampling on Graves

REGARDING Mark Frankland's article, "Happiest Room in the Camp," it's not surprising that the Hungarian Revolution, the heroic act of a suffering little nation, is used today as a political football between opposing diplomats.

But to glorify Kadar, the man who called the Russians in to crush the revolution, and to show up the very result of the fight—the privileged position of Hungary—as a generous gift of the Communist regime is trampling on the graves of those who paid with their lives for it. Poor naive patriots. They believed that the Declaration of Human Rights was worth more than the dollar.

I reject vehemently the statement of Mr. Frankland that "Hungarians are proud to have the happiest room in the camp" in the name of those who have no way to defend themselves, neither from their government nor from the insults of a foreign correspondent.

This type of writing thickens the dust over yesterdays, and covers the chains of enslaved nations. It creates an artificial fog over the eyes of Western nations putting to sleep the last remains of their conscience. Is there anything left of it?

Fairyland

Dear Canada! Land of illusions. Never has fairyland seemed so seductive. Since the last federal election we have watched democracy—subtle democracy—draped itself with a coat of many colors; we now have the 20th century shade of minority rule, government of the people, by the few, for the few.

Scene 1 portrayed the lullaby, to gift, to all parliamentarians, to add to the expense account; scene 2 witnessed the sprinkling of the crumbs under the table for the old age pensioners; scene 3, now really noble gifts are presented to the select few of the radiant affluent elite.

Fairyland has its demon of fear, though, and literature is beating the drum for fear that any opposition to the present game might be abortive.

The unemployed, and the old age pensioners (those dependent on that alone) are now the privileged class; they can wander around and through the overladen wonderland of plenty in the stores, and even touch the things they cannot buy, but to be able to pick up choice food, and things of beauty, if only to replace them with a sigh, must give relief. The motto of the present government could well be "To those that have shall be given" and their very own anthem: "O Canada, We Stand on Guard for Us."

Beautiful

In answer to Mr. W. Barker's remarks that rocks are ugly, I beg to differ with him. To me they are beautiful as seen in some fine work of masonry. Of course blasted bits of rock used without imagination in a garden as some self-appointed and unqualified landscape artists are apt to do look more hideous than any prison wall.

I would suggest that Mr. Barker climb a few mountains in B.C. or in the Olympics and see what mother nature does with "rocks" and plantlife in that environment. He would be astonished to see how nature embellishes rather than tries to hide rock.

Doubly Barricaded Border

By TOM STACEY

BARRIED-WIRE barricades on both sides now mark the border between Soviet Kazakhstan and China's Sinkiang province.

Mounted and on foot, Soviet and Chinese soldiers patrol the border to stem the flow of refugees. At several points the Chinese have set up machine-gun posts to deter would-be fugitives.

Much of the border is a region of wild and soaring mountains, some of the most forbidding terrain I have ever seen. It is the habitat of massively-horned wild sheep and snow leopards, a land where the state pays a $50-plus bounty for every dead wolf.

Through mountain trails, and through the high valleys and bleak deserts, an estimated 100,000 refugees have fled China in the past three years. The crossings followed a series of anti-Chinese uprisings among the Muslim inhabitants in Sinkiang.

Refugees are still crossing, but recent restrictions on both sides—and the oncoming winter—have reduced the flow to a trickle.

The Russians are checking the inflow presumably to keep their differences with the Chinese clean and ideological. Moscow evidently concluded that the border situation had become such a pre-occupation with the Chinese that any further exacerbation might burst into open conflict. Russian troops are few in the border area; but the Chinese are many.

Also, while all insurgents and refugees from Sinkiang are anti-Chinese, some are also anti-Communist and experienced guerrillas. This factor might add to Soviet reluctance to welcome refugees indiscriminately. Soviet Kirghizia and Uzbekistan are still plagued by powerful bandit clans operating from the High valleys.

Yet Russia has historically tried to maintain influence in western Sinkiang, and those refugees still slipping across are never turned back. And the Soviets appear to have played a significant part in stirring up the unrest in Sinkiang.

The Soviet "auto-transport" organization, for instance, had a network of representatives in all or most of the main towns on the Chinese side of the border; not only in the towns along the three roads, but including those along the numerous mule and camel routes through the mountains.

At least two representatives of this organization have been accused by the Chinese of aggravating the border crisis. Both were posted in areas where revolts took place last year.

The fertile Ili Valley, which the border bisects at right angles, has been the site of the main outflow of refugees recently—principally Uighurs, a Turkish-speaking people of only slight Mongolian strain.

Further south, in the area of Kashgar (a Chinese military headquarters), there has been a series of disturbances over the past three years. These have resulted in Uighur, Kirghiz (a mountain-dwelling, Turkish-speaking people of marked Mongolian strain) and Tajik (who speak a Persian-based language) crossing into Soviet Tajikistan.

Another 8,000 have slipped through the Wakhan Strip into Afghanistan, where many are employed in the Swiss shoe factory in Kabul. To forestall squabbles over incursions, the Chinese have signed a border pact with the Afghans.

The fiercest spontaneous uprising seems to have taken place last year at Chuguchak, to the north. Here Kazakhs were mainly involved.

According to one version they attacked government offices and a Chinese army barracks. Here, and among the Altai Mountains northward, the number of Kazakhs crossing was put at 40,000.

The overriding cause of the spate of refugees and uprisings seems to be economic.

All refugees I spoke to told of hunger. A Kazakh herdsman from the mountains south of Ili told me the refugees in his area have all been ragged and underfed.

A second source of unrest has been the ruthlessness of the Chinese in implementing their program for establishing communes in Sinkiang (all private property, even their "labor education camps"; and brutality towards any members of minorities demonstrating a nationalist spirit.

According to one account, when Uzman, the Kazakh nationalist leader in Sinkiang, was arrested, the Chinese dug a hole in a street in Urmchi, trussed Uzman up and flung him into it, ordering the people to tip their refuse onto him. It was days before he died.

A third cause has been the mass settlement of the habitable parts of Sinkiang by Chinese immigrants since 1950 under the "military colonies" scheme. (Sinkiang, one-sixth of all China, supports little more than a hundredth—six or seven million—of the population.)

This has sharpened the fears of the indigenous peoples for their Muslim faith which the Chinese have over-enthusiastically repressed—unlike the Russians who, latterly, have been banking on the faith dying an ideologically-assisted natural death.

The Russians have been quick to demonstrate to the refugees what their reading of Leninism means. Reception centres were set up, notably in the Ili area, to speed the distribution of refugees—the young to schools and technical institutes throughout eastern central Asia and the adults to jobs among their ethnic brothers. So far as I could gather, the reception centres have recently ceased to operate.

Soviet authorities have applied to refugees tactfully the party line on minorities. In Panfilov, refugees have been allowed to open a Uighur theatre. "Special favors" like new clothing are still meted out to those newly arrived from Sinkiang.

The Russians continue to maintain a large Sinkiang department in the International Relations Institute (where their diplomats are trained) in Moscow. China's incursion into India can only have stimulated this historical concern.

According to my information, it was the Russian "auto-transport" representative in Kashgar who gave Moscow the tip-off on the extent of China's territorial designs on India early in 1960. The news shocked the Russians into abruptly ending military supplies to Sinkiang in March, 1960.

Wise or Safe?

After all the sessions of the special committee on defence, after expeditions to Europe and to Washington, after a long and largely fruitless debate in the House of Commons on the estimates of the Department of National Defence, we are really none the wiser about Canada's defences. No one has yet been able to answer "yes" to the underlying question—can there be any defence for any country in the thermodynamic age?

Actually everyone knows that the answer is really "no"—but few in public life care to come out with it whatever they may mutter in the corridors of the Parliament Buildings.

Some time or other Canada and Canadians must face this question. Too many other things depend on that answer for us to dodge it much longer. There is the question of whether we can afford to starve such social and economic fields as education and health in the manner we are doing at present; and the related question of whether we can do anything else while we go on tossing away a billion and three quarters year after year on expenditures which no one is prepared to tell us unequivocally do provide any defence at all.

An equally serious question is whether or not it is wise or safe for us to spend so much on military preparations when our contributions to world development are so meagre—only 10 per cent of our military expenditures even after Paul Martin doubled them the other day.

And there is another matter which touches a number of Canadian families and that is what we are doing with the lives and capacities of a significant number of young men. This year in Europe some of us had the opportunity to meet some of these young men.

They were alert, intelligent, educated young men who could well be employed more effectively and usefully than in waiting and preparing for a war which if it is allowed to take place will render all our questions pointless. Here are the personnel for a really effective Peace Corps to be sent out into the undeveloped world to aid in development of the social, economic and even political institutions of new nations struggling to emerge into the light of the 20th century.

Given the sums that we now spend on them in their present futile and dangerous role, what miracles these young men could perform under the aegis of the United Nations and its specialized agencies. And what satisfying and absorbing lives they could lead.

It became obvious, moreover, from the speeches of various members that there is today a fairly general acceptance of the fact that the real importance of military expenditures as far as Canada is concerned is to be found in their economic consequences. This was revealed both in speeches exploring the high level of defence spending and in those exploring the cuts announced by the minister.

In the first case the speakers considered that there were more economically useful ways in which the money could be spent and in the second the speakers were concerned about retaining jobs for their constituents even though they may have had doubts about the wisdom or usefulness of the undertakings which provide the jobs.

Perhaps these are the first rifts in the clouds which have obscured Canada's economic and military skies for so long and we can soon hope to emerge into the sunlight of common sense, where Canadians will find employment in useful and stimulating undertakings.

At the centre of the possibility of a world of abundance lies the computer.

The computer varies in size from a bar of soap to a medium-sized haystack. It has the clean, clinical look that you associate with refrigerators, X-ray apparatus and some of the more lethal equipment that you are liable to see out of the corner of your eye from the dentist's chair.

It is a thing of winking lights, switches, buttons, transistors, tapes and all the eerie complexity of the electronic world.

It is at once a genius and an idiot. It can perform some of the functions of the human brain a million times faster and with impeccable accuracy yet, in other mental processes, it cannot begin to be even a cretin. But the computer can store knowledge by instructions and "learn" from what it retains.

It has "memory," and it can use this memory at a velocity that the mind of man cannot comprehend.

Yet this memory is rudimentary compared with that of the adult brain, which in a lifetime has a store of recorded experiences received by sight and sound and touch and taste and smell that runs into billions.

The computer can assimilate a number, recognize it and deal with it in a millionth of one second—but it can't enjoy a plate of steak and onions.

It can play a game of chess and has thus developed a technique of dealing with situations as they occur. It can read, it can write and when it comes to arithmetic—boy, oh boy!

A computer has composed a poem that was not completely gibberish.

When I was with International Business Machines, a vast corporation with 100,000 employees, who are the giants of the American computer world, I saw in their library a handsome bound volume.

The title was The Collected Works of Matthew Arnold. I opened it and expected to see The Scholar Gypsy, Sohrab and Rustum, and all that.

But no—the computer had been at it. The mathematical ants had swarmed in on the works of the son of the famous headmaster of Rugby.

A body of American literary research-workers had decided that it would be interesting to know how many times Arnold had used the same words. So they tossed his works into the computer.

The computer did a bit of electronic munching and then, in a very short time, produced an enormous detailed catalogue of every word that Arnold had ever written and how many times and in what poem.

That hoary old argument about whether Shakespeare or Bacon wrote Shakespeare could soon be settled by this mighty mathematical monster, for the computer by analyzing the words and their frequency and their order can identify a writer in the same way that thumb-prints can name a thief.

The other day in Chicago there was a dance held for about a thousand students.

Some gay spark, who had access to a computer, sent a questionnaire to all the boys and girls asking them to state a list of qualities they most liked in the opposite sex—blonde, brunette, tall, short, blue-eyed, brown-eyed, strong, silent, vivacious, petite, and so on.

Everyone who filled in the questionnaire was identified by a number. The data was then handed over to the computer which digested it in a trice and boiled out the answer as to which boy was matched to which girl and thus who should be partnered with whom. The dance was a roaring success.

The thing was taken a stage further, when the Rev. Lemuel Conway recently went to a marriage bureau called Mar-

The Computer

Genius and Idiot

By CASSANDRA from New York

TENS of thousands of years ago a caveman fixed a sharp flint to a stick and the first axe was made.

Later his descendants—maybe in the valley of the Euphrates or the Nile—constructed the first wheel, and the age of invention and the use of machinery for mankind had begun.

It moved on through the abacus, the potter's wheel, the printing press, the loom, the steam engine, the telephone, radio, and the motor car until it reached the threshold of the Second World War.

But all the fruits of these discoveries down the vast corridor of the years are less than the explosion of technology in the past twenty-five years.

These years have seen the arrival of nuclear energy and the bomb, space travel, and the developments of electronics and automation.

The Industrial Revolution of the last century was a cup of water compared with the Niagara of scientific and industrial discovery that has been released in the past two and a half decades.

The genie is out of the bottle and the possibility of destroying the whole world in a day or conferring upon it an age of plenty, such as the mind can hardly conceive, is upon us.

At the centre of the possibility of a world of abundance lies the computer.

The computer varies in size from a bar of soap to a medium-sized haystack. It has the clean, clinical look that you associate with refrigerators, X-ray apparatus and some of the more lethal equipment that you are liable to see out of the corner of your eye from the dentist's chair.

IN MOVING to change Victoria's civic election date from the second to the first Thursday in December, city council has taken a step which may well prove beneficial in drawing more voters to the polls.

Victoria with its private legislation and Vancouver with its city charter are the only exceptions in the province to the first-Thursday rule, and while there may be no particular virtue in conformity as such, there is something to be said for the argument that election interest is apt to be livelier when municipal campaigning reaches a uniform peak. The city voting coming a week after the adjoining municipalities have balloted has an anticlimactic aspect.

More important though the first Thursday of the month is a week further removed from Christmas and its forerunning preoccupation with myriad preparations. Under present circumstances Victoria's elections can come as little as eleven days before Dec. 25. The earlier date is clearly preferable in this respect.

Certainly too the council is wise in calling for new surveys to be made to see if voting can be bolstered practically in other ways—through introduction of district polling stations instead of the single central location, and by provision of free transportation.

It is to be anticipated perhaps that a multi-station study by the same staff will come up with the same conclusions—in favor of the existing system—as on several previous occasions, including the finding that the city's voting compares well with that in municipalities which have the neighborhood balloting.

Victoria, however, is not any other municipality, and such comparisons therefore may not be valid. Nor, especially in view of the dwindling use of bus transportation, can one be much impressed with the claim that because of the radial nature of this system it is easier to vote downtown than in a district, polling-place. Hence it might be suggested that no matter the verdict of a new report, the neighborhood voting could well be put to actual test next year. There is ample time now to prepare for it, and still will be if the studies are promptly carried out.

Rough Stuff

THE MANAGER of one of Canada's junior hockey clubs has labelled the Czechoslovakia team now touring this country as "lacking in courage" because while here it doesn't play under Canadian rules.

It might take more courage—moral courage—not to do so.

As the president of the Alberta amateur association has pointed out, the Czech exhibition tour was arranged beforehand to be played under international rules, consistent with international hockey regulations.

The difference which irks the complaining official is that international rules bar the kind of physical checking which abounds in the Canadian game. In effect this suggests that Canadian teams can only flourish when rough and bruising tactics are allowed. Hockey is no namby-pamby game but TV watchers of the recent NHL donnybrook, which resulted in about $5,000 in fines being levied for fighting and using sticks as clubs, must wonder if mayhem is being substituted for sport.

The belief is that this sort of behavior pleases the fans, so officials and referees are lenient with many instances of roughing bad enough to cripple players perhaps for life.

If this be so Canadian teams had better stay at home and not take part in international competitions. The Canadian hockey image has been badly dented abroad—admittedly because "amateur" provisions prevent the best representative teams from competing—but if brawling is to have priority over sheer skill and sportsmanship then this is a poor lookout for the good name of this country.

It is probably a matter of chagrin that Canada, the home of ice hockey, no longer enjoys Olympic supremacy, and that other nations are now developing a flair for the game that may enable them soon to rank with the best this country can produce. This they have done apparently without resort to the extreme bruising permitted in Canada.

Like it or not Canadian hockey will have to soften its rough stuff if in future it wants to hold its end up with the rest of the hockey-playing nations.

Either that or abdicate from the international realm altogether.

Trampling on Graves

REGARDING Mark Frankland's article, "Happiest Room in the Camp," it's not surprising that the Hungarian Revolution, the heroic act of a suffering little nation, is used today as a political football between opposing diplomats. But to glorify Kadar, the man who called the Russians in to crush the revolution, and to show up the very result of the fight—the privileged position of Hungary—as a generous gift of the Communist regime is trampling on the graves of those who paid with their lives for it. Poor naive patriots. They believed that the Declaration of Human Rights was worth more than the dollar.

I reject vehemently the statement of Mr. Frankland that "Hungarians are proud to have the happiest room in the camp" in the name of those who have no way to defend themselves, neither from their government nor from the insults of a foreign correspondent.

This type of writing thickens the dust over yesterday's, and covers the chains of enslaved nations. It creates an artificial fog over the eyes of Western nations putting to sleep the last remains of their conscience. Is there anything left of it?

A REFUGEE

Open Sundays

There appears to be a move on foot to work for a wide-open Sunday in Victoria, or in British Columbia generally. In view of the fact that this country, and in fact the whole world, is in grave trouble already with law-breaking, delinquency and other related ills, because we have allowed the rule of man, rather than the rule of God, to dominate us, it must be apparent that every step we take away from God's law will make our condition worse instead of better. The law of God says: "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy."

Fairyland

Dear Canada! Land of illusions. Never has fairyland seemed so seductive. Since the last federal election we have watched democracy—subtle democracy—drift itself with a coat of many colors; we now have the 20th century shade of minority rule, government of the people, by the few, for the few.

Scene 1 portrayed the lullaby gift, to all parliamentarians, to add to the expense account; scene 2 witnessed the sprinkling of the crumbs under the table for the old age pensioners; scene 3, now really noble gifts are presented to Between China, U.S.S.R.

Doubly Barricaded Border

By TOM STACEY

BARBED-WIRE barricades on both sides now mark the border between Soviet Kazakhstan and China's Sinkiang province.

Mounted and on foot, Soviet and Chinese soldiers patrol the border to stem the flow of refugees. At several points the Chinese have set up machine-gun posts to deter would-be fugitives.

Much of the border is a region of wild and soaring mountains, some of the most forbidding terrain I have ever seen. It is the habitat of massively-horned wild sheep and snow leopards, a land where the state pays a $50-plus bounty for every dead wolf.

Through mountain trails, and through the high valleys and break deserts, an estimated 100,000 refugees have fled China in the past three years. The crossings followed a series of anti-Chinese uprisings among the Muslim inhabitants in Sinkiang.

Refugees are still crossing, but recent restrictions on both sides—and the oncoming winter—have reduced the flow to a trickle.

The Russians are checking the inflow presumably to keep their differences with the Chinese clean and ideological. Moscow evidently concluded that the border situation had become such a pre-occupation with the Chinese that any further exacerbation might burst into open conflict. Russian troops are few in the border area, but the Chinese are many.

Also, while all insurgents and refugees from Sinkiang are anti-Chinese, some are also anti-Communist and experienced guerrillas. This factor might add to Soviet reluctance to welcome refugees indiscriminately. Soviet Kirghizia and Uzbekistan are still plagued by powerful bandit clans operating from the high valleys.

Yet Russia has historically tried to maintain influence in western Sinkiang, and those refugees still shipping across are never turned back. And the Soviets appear to have played a significant part in stirring up the unrest in Sinkiang.

The Soviet "auto-transport trade" organization, for instance, had a network of representatives in all or most of the main towns on the Chinese side of the border; not only in the towns along the three roads, but including those along the numerous mule and camel routes through the mountains.

At least two representatives of this organization have been accused by the Chinese of aggravating the border crisis. Both were posted in areas where revolts took place last year.

The fertile Ili Valley, which the border bisects at right angles, has been the site of the main outflow of refugees recently—principally Uighurs, a Turkish-speaking people of only slight Mongolian strain.

Farther south, in the area of Kashgar (a Chinese military headquarters), there has been a series of disturbances over the past three years. These have resulted in Uighur, Kirghiz (a mountain-dwelling, Turkish-speaking people of marked Mongolian strain) and Tajik (who speak a Persian-based language) crossing into Soviet Tajikistan.

Another 8,000 have slipped through the Wakhan Strip into Afghanistan, where many are employed in the Swiss shoe factory in Kabul. To forestall squabbles over incursions, the Chinese have signed a border pact with the Afghans.

The fiercest spontaneous uprising seems to have taken place last year at Chuguchak, to the north. Here Kazakhs were mainly involved.

According to one version they attacked government offices and a Chinese army barracks. Here, and among the Altai Mountains northward, the number of Kazakhs crossing was put at 40,000.

The overriding cause of the escape of refugees and uprisings seems to be economic.

All refugees I spoke to told of hunger. A Kazakh herdsman from the mountains south of Ili told me the refugees in his area have all been ragged and underfed.

A second source of unrest has been the ruthlessness of the Chinese in implementing their program of establishing communes in Sinkiang (all private property, even their spoils, was confiscated), and their "labor education camps"; and brutality towards any members of minorities demonstrating a nationalist spirit.

According to one account, when Uzman, the Kazakh nationalist leader in Sinkiang, was arrested, the Chinese dug a hole in a street in Urmchi, trussed Uzman up and flung him into it, ordering the people to tip their refuse onto him. It was days before he died.

A third cause has been the mass settlement of the habitable parts of Sinkiang by Chinese immigrants since 1950 under the "military colonies" scheme. (Sinkiang, one-sixth of all China, supports little more than a hundredth—six or seven million—of the population.)

This has sharpened the fears of the indigenous peoples for their Muslim faith which the Chinese have over-enthusiastically repressed—unlike the Russians who, latterly, have been banking on the faith dying an ideologically-assisted natural death.

The Russians have been quick to demonstrate to the refugees what their reading of Leninism means. Reception centres were set up, notably in the Ili area, to speed the distribution of refugees—the young to schools and technical institutes throughout eastern central Asia and the adults to jobs among their ethnic brothers. So far as I could gather, the reception centres have recently ceased to operate.

Soviet authorities have applied to refugees tactfully the party line on minorities. In Panfilov, refugees have been allowed to open a Uighur theatre. "Special favors" like new clothing are still meted out to those newly arrived from Sinkiang.

The Russians continue to maintain a large Sinkiang department in the International Relations Institute (where their diplomats are trained) in Moscow. China's incursion into India can only have stimulated this historical concern.

According to my information, it was the Russian "auto-transport trade" representative in Kashgar who gave Moscow the tip-off on the extent of China's territorial designs on India early in 1960. The news shocked the Russians into abruptly ending military supplies to Sinkiang in March, 1960.

Wise or Safe?

Defence Spending

By COLIN CAMERON, MP

AFTER all the sessions of the special committee on defence, after expeditions to Europe and to Washington, after a long and largely fruitless debate in the House of Commons on the estimates of the Department of National Defence, we are really none the wiser about Canada's defence. No one has yet been able to answer "yes" to the underlying question—can there be any defence for any country in the thermodynamic age? Actually everyone knows that the answer is really "no"—but few in public life care to come out with it whatever they may mutter in the corridors of the Parliament Buildings.

Some time or other Canada and Canadians must face this question. Too many other things depend on that answer for us to dodge it much longer. There is the question of whether we can afford to starve such social and economic fields as education and health in the manner we are doing at present; and the related question of whether we can do anything else while we go on tossing away a billion and three quarters year after year on expenditures which no one is prepared to tell us unequivocally do provide any defence at all.

An equally serious question is whether or not it is wise or safe for us to spend so much on military preparations when our contributions to world development are so meagre—only 10 per cent of our military expenditures even after Paul Martin doubled them the other day.

And there is another matter which touches a number of Canadian families and that is what we are doing with the lives and capacities of a significant number of young men. This year in Europe some of us had the opportunity to meet some of these young men.

They were alert, intelligent, Perhaps these are the first rifts in the clouds which have obscured Canada's economic and military skies for so long and we can soon hope to emerge into the sunlight of common sense, where Canadians will find employment in useful and stimulating undertakings.

The Computer

Genius and Idiot

By CASSANDRA from New York

TENS of thousands of years ago a caveman fixed a sharp flint to a stick and the first axe was made.

Later his descendants—maybe in the valley of the Euphrates or the Nile—constructed the first wheel, and the age of invention and the use of machinery for mankind had begun.

It moved on through the abacus, the potter's wheel, the printing press, the loom, the steam engine, the telephone, radio, and the motor car until it reached the threshold of the Second World War.

But all the fruits of these discoveries down the vast corridor of the years are less than the explosion of technology in the past twenty-five years.

These years have seen the arrival of nuclear energy and the bomb, space travel, and the developments of electronics and automation.

The Industrial Revolution of the last century was a cup of water compared with the Niagara of scientific and industrial discovery that has been released in the past two and a half decades.

The genie is out of the bottle and the possibility of destroying the whole world in a day or conferring upon it an age of plenty, such as the mind can hardly conceive, is upon us.

At the centre of the possibility of a world of abundance lies the computer.

The computer varies in size from a bar of soap to a medium-sized haystack. It has the clean, clinical look that you associate with refrigerators, X-ray apparatus and some of the more lethal equipment that you are liable to see out of the corner of your eye from the dentist's chair.

It is a thing of winking lights, switches, buttons, transistors, tapes and all the eerie complexity of the electronic world.

It is at once a genius and an idiot. It can perform some of the functions of the human brain a million times faster and with impeccable accuracy yet, in other mental processes, it cannot begin to be even a cretin. But the computer can store knowledge by instructions and "learn" from what it retains.

It has "memory," and it can use this memory at a velocity that the mind of man cannot comprehend.

Yet this memory is rudimentary compared with that of the adult brain, which in a lifetime has a store of recorded experiences received by sight and sound and touch and taste and smell that runs into billions.

The computer can assimilate a number, recognize it and deal with it in a millionth of one second—but it can't enjoy a plate of steak and onions.

It can play a game of chess and has thus developed a technique of dealing with situations as they occur. It can read, it can write and when it comes to arithmetic—boy, oh boy!

A computer has composed a poem that was not completely gibberish.

When I was with International Business Machines, a vast corporation with 100,000 employees, who are the giants of the American computer world, I saw in their library a handsome bound volume.

The title was The Collected Works of Matthew Arnold. I opened it and expected to see The Scholar Gypsy, Sohrab and Rustum, and all that sort of thing.

But no—the computer had been at it. The mathematical ants had swarmed in on the works of the son of the famous headmaster of Rugby.

A body of American literary research-workers had decided that it would be interesting to know how many times Arnold had used the same words. So they tossed his works into the computer.

The computer did a bit of electronic munching and then, in a very short time, produced an enormous detailed catalogue of every word that Arnold had ever written and how many times and in what poem.

That hoary old argument about whether Shakespeare or Bacon wrote Shakespeare could soon be settled by this mighty mathematical monster, for the computer by analyzing the words and their frequency and their order can identify a writer in the same way that thumb-prints can name a thief.

The other day in Chicago there was a dance held for about a thousand students. Some gay spark, who had access to a computer, sent a questionnaire to all the boys and girls asking them to state a list of qualities they most liked in the opposite sex—blonde, brunette, tall, short, blue-eyed, brown-eyed, strong, silent, vivacious, petite, and so on.

Everyone who filled in the questionnaire was identified by a number. The data was then handed over to the computer which digested it in a trice and boiled out the answer as to which boy was matched to which girl and thus who should be partnered with whom. The dance was a roaring success.

The thing was taken a stage further, when the Rev. Lemuel Conway recently went to a marriage bureau called Mar-tronics and gave a specification of his ideal wife.

The hundreds of ladies on the books of the bureau had also filled in their requirements.

In a few seconds a computer calculated that the Rev. Lemuel Conway should take a certain Mrs. Coover to be his lawful wedded wife. He did, and the joyful bells rang out.

Nobody, as yet, has sued the computer.

But the electronic computer has more serious business than this.

It has entered almost every known industry from oil to shipping, from steel to chemicals, from accountancy to aviation, from transport to coal.

The other day at London Bridge Station there was a signalling failure that resulted in an enormous hold-up delaying tens of thousands of passengers.

With a fully automated traffic system guided by computers we are reaching the point where the problem could have been solved in a minute or two, and the infinitely complex situation dealt with as it occurred.

No human brain or collection of brains could solve such a situation as this in a moment.

A new railway timetable takes at least a year to prepare.

The toll in arranging the vast mosaic of traffic movements so that they all fit in is an immense and lengthy undertaking.

Computers could do it in a matter of days.

Strategic Air Command is advised by a mighty computer system that has quite a say in whether to launch the world's first and last nuclear war.

In the world of accountancy the new Sorcerer's Apprentice really wields his broom.

The New Apprentice can sort, sift and solve at lightning speed.

He can identify addresses at the speed of over 10,000 words a minute.

He can perform his unspeakably fast tricks in the banking world so efficiently that soon the need for banking clerks will be about as acute as the demand for antimacassars.

The story goes in Wall Street that the computer section of a big New York bank broke down.

Said the managing director to his secretary: "Hire 30,000 office workers for the next 10 days or we'll be out of business."

The other story about a computer that had a fault and gave out the wrong answer, is that of the statistician who was called in to help and who, after reading the computer's solution, said thoughtfully: "It would take 47,000 fools working 24 hours a day for 367 years to drop a brick like that!"

One of the most dramatic aspects of the computer is its ability to solve situations that are quite impossible for the human brain to achieve.

The reason is simple: man, trying to work out the answer would die of old age long before he could get around to finishing his calculations.

In aviation and in space travel, where time is a critical factor, the problems could not be handled without computers. In the air the new super-sonic transports, like the Concorde, would be unworkable without the new wizard boxes. The calculations needed to take off and land would just not be possible let alone a solution to the peril of congestion in the air.

On the ground, in the United States, they have a new ticket-book installation called SABRE (short for Semi-Automatic Booking Equipment) which tells the reservation clerk in ten-millionths of a second if a seat is available on any American flight leaving any airport in the country.

If no accommodation is available the SABRE will almost instantaneously produce a written message stating alternative flights where there is room.

The computer can calculate fares in less time than you can draw a breath and, as a final flourish of expertise, it can requisition wheel-chairs for invalid passengers.

The computer, linked with automatic machines, increases production until the slave-robot world of unended machinery opens the great Cornucopia of boundless Plenty.

I have seen demonstrations of machinery over here that produces pressed steel bodywork from start to finish with only two men monitoring what goes on.

I have seen a machine that, with precision arms of steel yet delicate as a caress, can select chocolates, sort them and pack them in paper wrappings and place them in a gift box with nobody in sight, at a pace that 10 factory operators could not match.

I have learned of new mechanical untended apparatus that oils the delicate parts of eight wrist watches at a time.

These machines work 24 hours a day, seven days a week and they ask for no overtime. They never go on strike and they never go sick.

The statement appeared in the government newspaper Ivestia while African students attended a service in a heavily-guarded Moscow crematorium for Ghana student Edmund Asare-Addo, who died in the snow under mysterious circumstances.

Many Muscovites had heard of the demonstrations by word of mouth or from Voice of America and BBC broadcasts and tempers were rising on both sides. New demonstrations were feared.

Entrance Standards Won't Change Here

There will be no change in entrance standards for University of Victoria for the academic year starting September, 1964, but the standards will remain under continuous review, said Dean R. T. Wallace.

At UBC the 50 per cent average in Grade 12 exams for university entrance has been increased to 60 per cent, but the University of Victoria requirements remain unchanged.

Dean Wallace said the seven-man committee which recommended the status quo be maintained after considerable study, will continue to keep watch on how students perform in their first year, the marks they obtain and the circumstances which brought them to university.

Recommendation will be made to the senate from time to time, but any change in the admission requirements would be made with one year's notice so high school students, entering their final high school year, would be forewarned of university requirements.

SHOULD KNOW AHEAD
"We feel people should know before they come to university, the conditions under which they will enter," said Dean Wallace. He added that the university is trying to give as many people as possible a chance to try themselves in a university situation, but the standards were not being weakened or lowered.

MORE STUDENTS
It was anticipated that this year's freshman total of 900 will be increased to 1,100 in the autumn, but the announcement of the maintaining of admission standards is expected to increase the number still further.

Fraud Trial Ordered

CALGARY (CP)—Thomas Hilary Kirwan, about 50, formerly of Vancouver and Seattle, Friday was committed to trial in Alberta Supreme Court on a charge of fraud.

No date was set. Kirwan was charged after an advertisement appeared in a Calgary paper which sought four or five employees with money to invest for a trout farm at an unspecified B.C. location.

'Part of Art World Died'

When fire destroyed 400 works of art, including 35 Picasso paintings, art gallery owner Lester Arwin said: "They have died and part of the world of art has died, too." Gallery fire in downtown Detroit furniture store cost $300,000 damage.—(AP Photofax)

West German Goal:

Instant Retaliation

OTTAWA (CP)—West Germany is advocating a policy of instant nuclear retaliation in Europe, the Commons defence committee said Friday in its report to Parliament.

"It should not be taken for granted that nuclear weapons would be used by NATO forces at the very beginning of any aggression notwithstanding the advocacy of such a policy by West German officials," the committee said.

ENDORSE CUTS

The committee also endorsed Defence Minister Hellyer's apparent efforts to streamline Canadian armed forces and re-align Canada's NATO commitments.

In an interim report to Parliament, the committee unanimously outlined eight major recommendations, already under study by Hellyer in the preparation of his department's white paper early next year.

The committee, after spending 14 days in Europe looking into Canada's NATO role, made its most specific recommendations in connection with Canada's eight-squadron air division.

The report, noting the French refusal to allow storage of nuclear weapons on Canadian bases in France, recommended that NATO "be requested to relocate" the four French-based squadrons.

It was also suggested that the government initiate "an immediate review" to investigate the merits of giving the CF-104 Starfighters a dual, conventional as well as nuclear, role.

Outbids Chou?

Nikita Backs Revolt

ALGIERS (UPI) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev, in an apparent bid to get the jump on Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai, expressed his support yesterday for armed revolt in colonialist and "oppressed countries" to win independence.

Khrushchev's statements appeared in interviews in two Algerian newspapers one day before Chou was due here from Cairo on his African tour to bolster African support for Peking and weaken the Soviet Union's position.

Communist China in recent Peking broadcasts has preached the doctrine of "wars of liberation" while accusing Khrushchev of seeking peaceful co-existence and knocking under to "U.S. imperialism."

"All those to whom liberty is dear cannot accept the continued occupation of South Korea and Formosa by the imperialists of the United States and cannot tolerate their war against the patriots in South Viet Nam," Khrushchev was quoted as saying.

"SLAVERY" ATTACKED

"We consider completely inadmissible the fact that Portuguese colonialists, South African racists, English and American imperialists with the support of the United Nations, still hold in slavery more than 50,000,000 men."

In Cairo, Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai charged yesterday that the United States is interfering in Cambodian affairs.

He also offered to resume negotiations with India to settle their border dispute.

Chou has spent a week in the United Arab Republic talking with President Nasser and sightseeing, including a trip to the Soviet-financed and-built Aswan dam.

AFRICA BID

He planned another seven weeks in Africa to rally friends for Peking from among the new nations.

Chou called for Afro-Asian solidarity with China against "imperialist" military alliances that he said "threaten the peace of Asia and the world." He charged imperialism also was trying to provoke differences between non-aligned Afro-Asian countries.

Redistribution

Rules Set To Change Ridings

OTTAWA (CP) — The government unveiled Friday the second stage of legislation which will result in a new shaping of virtually every parliamentary constituency in Canada.

As provided for in an earlier bill, the job will be done by 10 commissions — one for each province — under the general direction of the new representation commissioner, Nelson Castonguay, the present chief electoral officer.

The bill introduced Friday in the Commons by State Secretary Pickerskill spells out the rules which the 10 commissions must follow in drawing constituency maps to account for population changes since the last redistribution of seats in 1962.

Hitherto redistribution has been done by a parliamentary committee on the basis of the decennial census.

SEATS WILL INCREASE

On the basis of current constitutional requirements, the Commons will have 264 seats, down one from the present 265. But the total seats are almost certain to be increased to at least 286 because of prospective seat losses in Nova Scotia, Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The total number of MPs for each province will be divided into the total population of that province to arrive at a basic size of constituency for that province. Each of the 10 commissions must keep as closely to that basic figure as possible. For example, Ontario's population in the 1961 census was 6,236,092. Present constitutional rules call for Ontario to have 83 parliamentary seats — up from the present 85 — at the next redistribution. Thus Ontario constituencies will have to be as close as possible to a population of 70,853.

This basic figure, known as an electoral quota, will be worked out in the same way for each province.

VARIATION ALLOWED

The commissions are authorized to vary the size of a constituency where they consider it necessary or desirable because of special geographic considerations, including sparsity or density of population, accessibility of regions or their size or shape.

Worst Storm in Years Kills 10

HALIFAX (CP) — A paralyzing blizzard, howling in on winds of hurricane force, has left at least 10 dead and four missing in the Atlantic provinces.

Mountainous seas imperilled shipping as the winds, gusting up to 100 miles an hour, pounded Newfoundland Friday after a day-long battering Thursday of the Maritimes. Dozens went to hospital, victims of the worst storm to hit the area in four years.

Two of the four missing persons were presumed dead. The wreckage of their overdue fishing boat was washed ashore.

Six of seven crew members of the Newfoundland coastal freighter Mary Pauline drowned before the eyes of crews on two other ships early Friday. The crew attempted to escape their sinking 124-foot vessel in dories, but mountainous waves overturned the small boats throwing the men into the water. One was rescued.

The men aboard the Mary Pauline were identified as Capt. John Mills of Lunenburg, N.S., first mate Sylvester Hynes and Nicholas Whittle, both of St. Bernard's, Nfld., engineer John Clark of Halifax, Walter Bald, a win of Corner Brook and Aubrey Rice and Chesley Windsor, both of St. John's, Nfld.

It was not immediately known which man was saved.

A railway engineer, Mitchell MacDonald, 53, of Charlotte town, suffered a stroke and died at the controls of his locomotive at the switching yard in Borden, P.E.I.

Albert Dauphinee, 78, of Bridgewater, N.B., and Harold A. Crawford, 35, of Halifax, died of heart attacks while shovelling snow. In Truro, John Baile, 85, died after he was struck on the head by a storm-door blown back at him by 85-mile-an-hour winds.

The wreckage of the 43-foot fishing boat Ruth Lillian was reported sighted on lonely Ellerswood Island off western Nova Scotia.

RCMP reported receiving a message from a woman on Ellerswood Island saying she saw the wreckage wash up on the Westport in the same Bay of Gallants, Nfld., who were missing on a trip to Corner Brook, Nfld., a distance of 25 miles. RCMP were searching for Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Campbell of along the way.

Human Tide of Happiness

Thousands Cross Wall

BERLIN (AP) — A human tide of happy West Berliners streamed through the Communist wall Friday for joyous reunions in East Berlin with relatives they had not been allowed to see for more than two years.

Snow covered the city, but no one seemed to mind the cold. West Berliners were getting their Christmas gift from the Communists—one day passes to enter East Berlin.

COULDN'T SLEEP

"I was so excited that I couldn't sleep the last three nights," said a West Berlin woman at one of the five crossing points.

In an East Berlin suburb, a housewife met for the first time a grandchild born in West Berlin since the wall went up 28 months ago.

STORY REPEATED

And the story was repeated in many private homes, where most of the relatives met to bridge the long and lonely gap since the city was forcibly divided.

The West Berliners began hurrying through as soon as the steel candy-striped barriers of the wall were lifted by the East Berlin border guards. They passed by gaily-lit Christmas trees on the West Berlin side of the wall.

TRAVEL WITH CHILDREN

Scores of young children, under the age of two, were among the West Berlin families.

The regime of East Germany has relented for the limited period until next Jan. 5 to allow relatives to get together in East Berlin.

OFFICIAL OPENING

Friday saw the official opening of the massive operation, which will bring together tens of thousands of separated Berliners in the next three weeks. About two score got an early start by crossing over Thursday.

West officials reported that by 4:30 p.m. 2,662 persons had crossed over on foot or in 600 autos. An unknown number had ridden the elevated train into the East sector.

VOPUS EVEN SMILE

The Vopos—as the East German guards are nicknamed—were on their best behavior. Instead of their usual grim look they smiled. They discreetly turned their backs on emotional meetings. They carried baby carriages, even lifted toddlers

Says Chou:

Sino-Soviet Rift 'Not Permanent'

CAIRO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of China said Friday Peking's rift with Moscow is not permanent and showing a new face to his Egyptian hosts, denounced the assassination of President Kennedy.

"Assassination is a... most reprehensible and despicable act," Chou said in response to a question from an American correspondent. "You know that we Communists are against assassination, even if the victim is hostile to us."

CONTRAST

The premier's remarks contrasted to the coldness with which Communist China reacted to the shooting in Dallas four weeks ago. Peking issued not a warm word then about Kennedy, whom it had often described as the No. 1 enemy of the world's people. And it called President Johnson, his successor, a man who would follow Kennedy's "various reactionary policies."

OPPOSED TREATY

He also told a press conference he knew nothing about reports China was preparing to explode an atomic device within a year.

He said China opposed the partial nuclear test-ban treaty because it increased rather than decreased the danger of nuclear war.

WARNS WEST

The Chinese leader, who began a two-month tour of Africa with a five-day visit to Egypt, warned the Western world the Chinese rift with the Soviet Union is not permanent.

"If anything unusual happens," Chou said, "the Soviet Union and China will stand shoulder to shoulder and arm to arm."

Santa Parachutes Gifts To Primitive Indians

WINNIPEG (CP) — Food, clothing and toys tumbled to the ground by parachute Friday as Santa Claus swept over Little Grand Rapids, Man. in a big air force plane.

This is the eighth year of the Christmas drop to the Saulteaux Indian settlement of 500 people, described by an Indian affairs spokesman as "almost the most primitive" Indian community in Manitoba.

SCANT EDUCATION

Little Grand Rapids lies in lake, river and muskeg country 200 miles northeast of Winnipeg. It has neither roads nor electric lights. The scantily educated adults live by fishing, hunting and trapping.

Besides the log and frame houses of the Saulteaux, Little

TRAINING FLIGHT

In 1955 an RCAF search and rescue crew on a training flight to the area was touched by the plight of the people, and decided to do something to brighten their Christmas.

The air force worked out a scheme with the help of a chaplain at RCAF station Gimli, 50 miles north of here. Under the plan, RCAF search and rescue training flights out of Winnipeg into the area around Christmas time agreed to carry a cargo of gifts.

EIGHT YEARS

In the eight years since then, women's organizations and Sunday schools of Gimli Protestant and Roman Catholic chapels have arranged collection of gifts.

Each Indian family also receives a gift package that includes food, clothing and toys for each child of the family.

Much-Jailed Motorist Jailed Again

TORONTO (CP) — A 25-year-old motorist who said he has spent four years in jail for driving convictions was sentenced to six months Thursday for driving while his licence was under suspension.

Magistrate C. A. Thoburn said he was the third magistrate to recommend William McStravick's licence be cancelled for life. He refused McStravick time to pay a $500 fine.

McStravick, whose record includes five convictions for driving under suspension and four for leaving the scene of an accident, had his licence reinstated by Highways Minister MacNaughton earlier this year.

"I'm amazed the minister would reinstate his licence after such a short time against the recommendations of Magistrate William Rogers and Magistrate S. T. Bigelow," Magistrate Thoburn said.

"But the minister takes the responsibility, not me."

McStravick was stopped in 1962 for driving while his licence was under suspension but ran away from police. He went to Vancouver and was arrested there last week.

Fifth Guard Held in Blasts

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — A fifth Alabama national guardsman was charged Friday night with taking part in one of three minor explosions near the University of Alabama.

Prosecutor Fred Nicol said Sgt. Charles Hollifield of Marion, Ala., reported to authorities with a lawyer.

Hollifield, 25, was charged with taking part in a Nov. 19 explosion, the third and final blast near a dormitory housing a Negro student. Hollifield posted $5,000 bond.

Nicol said "we've taken care of all outstanding warrants."

Free Schools For Jobless

WINNIPEG (UPI) — Unemployed persons receiving welfare payments will receive free instruction in city schools, starting next month.

Schools superintendent Dr. W. C. Lorimer said the classes would be held in the late afternoon and evenings and would cover general academic subjects. Thirty-two persons already have signed up.

British Players on Strike Over Ban on Long Shorts

LONDON (AP) — Nineteen star players of an English soccer club stayed out on strike today for the right to wear long pants.

It was all part of the cold war raging between West Bromwich Albion's top professionals and their manager, former England inside forward Jimmy Hagan.

The revolt flared Thursday as the team set out for training. The thermometer showed 27 degrees and that, said the players, was too cold for shorts.

Hagan insisted: "Shorts! It must

More Reason For 'Longies'

LONDON (Reuters) — Snow and frost have hit Saturday British sports program, causing the postponement of several fixtures.

All horse race meetings scheduled were called off.

The Aberdeen vs. Dunfermline Scottish League First Division soccer match was postponed.

Several Rugby Union and Rugby League matches also were cancelled.

Hunting-Safety Programs Prove Successful Death List for Year Shows Sharp Decrease

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Death's hunting-season bag of humans is dropping in Canada as authorities step up safety programs.

The 1963 shooting toll in the woods appears headed for the low point of recent years though hunters' numbers are as large as ever, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows.

A compilation lists 44 killed in gun accidents as the year nears a close. The figure is not final but is unlikely to reach the 66 of last year or come anywhere near the 82 of 1961 or 94 of 1960.

Quebec's death list is only six at this point—it was a somewhat low 10 for the previous season—and the province's fish and game department attributes the improvement mainly to safety campaigns of the provincial government, sport associations and manufacturers of hunting equipment.

TOUGH APPROACH WORKS
And in Manitoba, where the regulations became really tough this fall, only one fatality has been chalked up against four for 1962 and seven the year before. Among other things, hunting while drunk now is an offence.

The Manitoba government also has authorized the appointment of a firearms safety officer to conduct a program on weapon-handling, and the Manitoba Federation of Game and Fish Associations so far has trained 15,000 youngsters, none of whom has been involved in a firearms accident.

The province with the most hunters — Ontario, with some 580,000 licences issued — has 15 fatalities. This is verging on the 18 of 1962, despite a hunter-training course by the lands and forests department that so far has graduated around 20,000 persons.

When to Pick at Hunt SOLUNAR TABLES
According to the Solunar Tables, the best time for hunting and fishing today is 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Tomorrow is 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Major periods lasting 14 to 2 hours, dark type. Minor periods, shorter in duration, light type.

Prince Edward Island is the only province with no deaths. It had one in 1962, when there were fatalities in every province.

The toll in the other provinces with last year's figures in brackets:

Newfoundland, 5 (2); Nova Scotia, 2 (2); New Brunswick, 2 (3); Saskatchewan, 5 (6); Alberta, 1 (5); British Columbia, 7 (15).

Alberta's almost-unblemished shooting record was blotched by an outburst of eight deaths by asphyxiation among hunting parties during November. In three separate accidents, the eight died from the operation of heaters — gas and charcoal — in unventilated trailers.

HUNTER KILLS MOTHER

Newfoundland produced the oddity that four of its five deaths were from self-inflicted accidental wounds. The fifth came about when a hunter tripped and shot his mother.

Besides the shooting deaths, six hunters in New Brunswick were drowned.

By and large, the hunting was good.

Highlights included Ontario's moose kill of between 15,000 and 16,000, among some 60,000 marksmen.

"Ontario now has the largest moose hunt on the North American continent," said Douglas Omand, supervisor of the province's wildlife and enforcement branch.

Quebec reported game permits for the season were expected to be a record 300,000. The previous record was 278,300 in 1960. Hunting was described as good with the moose bag totalling 3,584.

BIG GAME PLENTY

British Columbia's big-game bag appeared headed for higher levels than the 68,000 deer, 17,000 moose and 2,300 elk of 1962. However, the kills of duck and grouse were down. The trend over the last decade has been for the catches of big game to rise while there is a decline in birds shot.

In Alberta, the big-game kill was about average, with about 85 per cent of the 3,000 hunters after antelope getting their animal. The number of hunters allowed to shoot antelope this year was increased from 2,500.

Hunting for ducks, geese and pheasants was good.

Moose hunting in Saskatchewan was described as disappointing. Warm, still weather kept animals inactive, and lack of snow made hunting difficult. But it was an excellent season for antelope, and a special season for elk in the Moose Mountain area was successful.

Manitoba reported deer hunting down as the animal population appeared to have declined in the last two years. Duck hunting was spotty, but goose kills were excellent. Partridge and sharp-tailed grouse were down.

In the Atlantic provinces, New Brunswick reported a normal kill of about 9,500 deer, while partridge was excellent and duck spotty. The haul of moose in a four-day season was 280, down from 297 in 1962. The province estimated the economic value of the deer hunt as $3,000,000.

Griffith Demolished Left Welter Shelter

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "No welterweight has any business in the ring with me. I'm going to knock him out."

So said Rubin "Hurricane" Carter Friday night on the eve of his bout with welterweight champion Emile Griffith, who had aspirations of becoming a double champion.

shortly after the two fighters had broken from a clinch. Griffith beat the count but was obviously hurt and put both hands to his head before referee Buck McTierman waved Carter in again.

Carter moved in swiftly and raked the champion with a series of lefts and rights to the head, sending him to the canvas for the second time.

Griffith managed once again to get to his feet, but McTierman ruled he was unable to continue and awarded the fight to Carter at 2:13 of the first round. Carter weighed 155, Griffith 151½.

Griffith's title was not at stake. It was the first time the New Yorker by way of the Virgin Islands had been stopped.

Griffith's record now is 38-5. Carter's record is 18-4, including 12 knockouts.

U.S. Probers Urge Vote at 18, End to Poll Tax, Literacy Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential commission recommended yesterday all states consider dropping the minimum age for voters to 18 and called for eliminating poll taxes and literacy tests as voter qualifications.

President Johnson called the 11-member commission to the White House to present its report, ordered last March by John F. Kennedy.

In recommending the poll tax be eliminated as a prerequisite for voting, it said: "No American should have to buy his right to vote in any election."

Major argument for 18-year-old voting was the belief that, by the time young people reach 21, they are "so far removed from the stimulation of the educational process their interest in public affairs has waned."

The report observed literacy tests have been used to bar Negro voters and said no American should be denied the right to vote because his formal education is limited.

A Shock to Taxpayers?

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Deschatelets disclosed in the Commons Friday the federal government alone will spend more than $112,500,000 on the 1967 Montreal world fair and related highway construction.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said his government had given a clear understanding that the federal contribution to the fair would not exceed $20,000,000.

If this happened, it would shock the sensibilities of Canadian taxpayers. If the fair failed, it would be a "world fiasco" with terrible consequences for Canada's prestige abroad.

Frank Howard (NDP—

Skeena) said the federal government proposes to spend huge sums on the fair while being "led along by the nose" by the Quebec government and the city of Montreal.

The federal government was making a fool of itself by erecting a costly monument to Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, he said.

The exchanges occurred as the Commons approved a government bill amending the original world's fair legislation put through a year ago by the former Conservative government. The bill legalizes the artificial twin-island site of the fair in the St. Lawrence River, provides for the addition of two directors to the 12-member board supervising the fair preparations and establishes a five-member executive committee.

But Changes Seen

Salmon Curbs Likely To Continue

Canada and the U.S. have fared pretty well in getting the salmon they spawn protected from fishing by other nations, an international fisheries treaty official said in Victoria last night.

R. L. Jackson, executive director of the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission told a public meeting, sponsored by the University of B.C. extension department, that he expects the protection to continue for some time, although the theories under which it is given will change.

He predicted Japan will continue for some years to refrain from taking salmon east of a north-south line in about the middle of the North Pacific.

But, he said, Japan is holding out for abandonment of what is known as the principle of abstention—the principle that a country is entitled exclusively to the fish spawned in its waters.

ABSTENTION RULE
The International North Pacific Fisheries Convention among Japan, the U.S. and Canada is based on the abstention principle. It was originally signed for a 10-year period, which expired this year, and is currently under re-negotiation.

The treaty now can be cancelled on one year's notice by any member nation, but no such notice has yet been given, so it will be in force for at least the 1964 fishing season, Mr. Jackson said.

The Japanese, however, have called for it to be re-negotiated and want the abstention principle revoked. But they are willing to continue to refrain from fishing east of the present line while the three nations undertake a study of the effects of high-seas fishing on conservation, Mr. Jackson said.

Japan is the only one of the three nations that allows any of its fishermen, aside from trawlers, to fish on the high seas.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGE
Mr. Jackson said international law gives no sanction to the abstention principle and Canada and the U.S. are therefore seeking a "special privilege."

He said salmon go hundreds of miles to sea and the expected increase of Canada's offshore limit to 12 miles will therefore have no appreciable effect in preserving the commercial fishery.

Congress Agrees On Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) Senate and House of Representative conferees agreed Friday night on a compromise foreign-aid money bill, apparently clearing the way to adjournment of Congress.

After three fruitless sessions, the conferees finally agreed to set the appropriations at $3,000,000,000 and to grant the president authority to approve government guarantees of credit for sales of wheat to Communist nations.

The final money figure compared with $1,500,000,000 originally asked by President Kennedy, a $3,600,000,000 ceiling authorized by both chambers. $2,800,000,000 voted by the House and $3,270,000,000 voted by the Senate.

With other major issues shelved until Congress reconvenes Jan. 7, the conferees' action cleared the way to final adjournment of the 88th Congress' first session.

The adjournment will come after an 11½-month session, a near-record.

Jaycees Little Helpers

Santa Claus Ships at Sea

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

This weekend I am to be one of Santa's little helpers. On the invitation of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, I was to embark overnight last night at Sidney on the Jaycee Santa Claus ship which is sailing through the Gulf Islands today and Sunday bringing Christmas cheer to the children of the islands.

The Santa Claus ship, K. J. Norgaard's 65-foot yacht Blue Fjord, was moored at Sidney last night so the local residents could admire its bright Christmas decorations.

The ship is one of two to travel through the Gulf Islands bringing Christmas cheer and Santa to children in both Canadian and U.S. ports.

The Christmas ship, operated by Bellingham Jaycees, will leave Bellingham today around the early morning hour when the Santa ship leaves Sidney. The Bellingham ship has been travelling the Gulf Island waters for some Christmases now, but it's the first year for the Victoria Jaycee ship. Our ship was to leave Sidney at 7 a.m. today. Our first stop is Roche Harbor at 9 a.m., followed by Friday

Harbor at 10:15 a.m. and Deer Harbor at 12:30 p.m. Next stop after these U.S. points is Ganges, Salt Spring Island, where we are to arrive at 4 p.m.

Murdoch Hails 'Amiable Manner'

Don't Merge—Aim at Unity
Oak Bay Reeve's Last Word

By IAN STREET

Reeve George Murdoch, on the eve of his retirement after 18 years in public life, yesterday told the heads of other Greater Victoria municipalities he hoped Oak Bay would retain its autonomy in the future.

"I hope my worthy successor (reeve-elect Allan Cox) will see that we in this municipality retain our autonomy, but at the same time continue to work toward greater unity of Greater Victoria," he said.

Reeve Murdoch paid tribute to the "amiable manner" in which affairs of mutual concern had been dealt with by the intermunicipal committee during the past two years.

"Oak Bay, I'm sure, has been as much to blame as anyone else for the bickering and backbiting that has characterized some of our deliberations in years past.

'Great Pleasure'

"But it is a great pleasure to sit in a friendly atmosphere and work out our problems," he said.

Reeve Stanley Murphy, on behalf of Saanich council, presented the retiring reeve with a bouquet of flowers for Mrs. Murdoch in recognition of "her part in your long career."

The intermunicipal committee named Ald. Austin Curtis to call a meeting early in January of the special subcommittee which is to study proposed changes in the Victoria public library agreement.

Victoria appointed Ald. Curtis and Ald. Lily Wilson as its

Terms Ordered

The intermunicipal committee ordered its technical subcommittee to draw up terms of reference. These will be used in calling for tenders.

Coun. Cox reported that, at a recent meeting of Greater Victoria health board, an "informal request" was received from Central Saanich to participate in the survey.

The intermunicipal committee asked Capital Region Planning Board to prepare a report on feasibility of Hugh Stephenson's proposal to set up a joint fund for acquisition of parkland on the Saanich peninsula. In a report to the Chamber of Commerce Mr. Stephen suggested all municipalities contribute one half mill to the fund.

A request by Greater Victoria Celebrations Association for nearly double the amount of municipal grants next year was rejected by the intermunicipal committee. It referred the request to individual councils to deal with "on merit."

The association said in a letter that more than three-quarters of the $7,000 in receipts during the year came from municipal grants. It asked for this to be increased to $10,000 in 1964 to provide a firm basis for expansion.

Christmas Lighting

Car Club to Take Elderly on Tour

Residents of Matson Lodge, Salvation Army home for elderly people, will have a chance to see decorated homes entered in the Jaycee Christmas Lighting Contest. Members of the Coachmen Car Club will call at the lodge Monday evening for residents who wish to see the lights. "We started last year to take any of the residents to see the lights and the response was so great that we have decided to make it an annual outing," said Jerry Clarke, president of the club.

ship also are to arrive at Ganges tonight. Both ships will leave Ganges Sunday morning.

First stop for our ship Sunday will be Kuper Island at 9 a.m. Then it's on to Kuleet Bay at 10:15 a.m., Sibell Bay at 11 a.m. and Maple Bay at 2:15 p.m.

At Maple Bay Duncan Jaycees have laid on a party for 40 crippled or needy children. We are due back at Sidney at 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

The Bellingham ship, the 73-foot cannery tender Karluk, leaves Bellingham at 8 a.m. today and goes to Blakely Island, Lopez Island, Shaw Island and Orcas. It then crosses into Canadian waters for stops at Sidney at 2:30 p.m. and Ganges at 5:30 p.m.

Sunday it will visit Mayne, North Pender and Saturna Islands and, in U.S. waters, the Potosi Island Coast Guard Station, Waldron Island and Lummi Island. It will reach Bellingham about 6 p.m.

Gasoline Prices Closer

Gas prices have changed again in Victoria with brand-name gasolines reduced and cut-rate brands increased.

Last week prices were 37.9 and 42.9 at the cut-rate stations and one cent more at the standard-brand stations. Imperial increased its prices to 40.9 and 45.9. Other brand stations followed suit.

Thursday Causeway Esso service dropped one cent and other brand stations followed.

Woodward's, Mayfair and Mohawk increased prices by one cent and are now one cent below the standard price stations.

Room At Top

It's not necessary to wait for heat wave to put a sun top to use. This week many people are figuring out ways to transport Christmas trees home and Bruce Passmore of 941 Claremont found simple solution when he rolled back sun roof and took on his tree as passenger. —(Bud Kinsman.)

A postman was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday after being struck by a car at Quadra and Yates while on his rounds at about 11:15 a.m.

William Hamilton

Commissioner Made 'Chief' On Retirement

Retiring commissioner William Hamilton yesterday was made an honorary chief of Victoria city police department.

He was given a gold badge with an inscription on the back: "William J. Hamilton, police commissioner, 1952-1964."

Mayor R. B. Wilson, commission chairman, said the award expresses on behalf of the citizens "how much your presence will be missed."

TO SEEK ADVICE

He cited the "tremendous amount of time and work" contributed by Mr. Hamilton and said the commission will continue to seek his advice on matters related to the construction of the new police station and court.

Commissioner Gordon Carter also expressed his personal regrets. "We've worked together as a team for so long ... that it's going to be like losing a right arm," he said.

EFFECTIVE DEC. 31

The attorney-general's department was asked to appoint a new commissioner after Mr. Hamilton announced that he lacked the necessary property qualifications for a further term. His retirement is effective Dec. 31.

Police Chief John Gregory told the commission he issued an order Dec. 11 that prisoners who are acquitted in court or have charges withdrawn must be freed at once if no other charges are pending.

OPEN TO SUIT

Lawyer David Hummel wrote to the commission pointing out that denial of "the immediate right to leave on acquittal or withdrawal of charges" left police open to a suit for false arrest or imprisonment.

Chief Gregory also reported a "stepping up" of liaison and exchange of information between all forces in Greater Victoria that has worked to their mutual benefit.

The chief reported a seasonal increase in petty theft and shoplifting but said store security officers are "proving their worth."

Two spot checks on traffic have already been carried out and others are scheduled over the holiday period. To date no drinking or impaired drivers have been found but there have been "numerous" drivers caught without licences or driving while under suspension yesterday.

Crashes Wreck Two Cars

A man was reported in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital after the car he was driving was demolished when it went out of control and hit a utility pole at Quadra and McKenzie yesterday.

Charles William Taylor of 722 Lily was taken to hospital with head injuries. Bruce Addison Wright, 20, of 1483 Derby, escaped with facial cuts but his car was wrecked in a crash into a fruit tree at 4570 Torquay.

Lee Chew, 81, of 525 Corns, escaped with a cut over his left ear when he walked into a truck on Fisgard.

Damage $25,000

Firefighters Made 'Good Stop'

Fire would have involved the whole Black Ball Ferry Building, 816 Wharf, if firefighters had arrived five minutes later than they did Thursday night, Victoria Fire Chief John Abbott said last night.

As it was, he estimated, $20,000 to $25,000 damage was done. The entire area where the fire was will have to be repainted and renovated, he said.

Pats Send Greetings

Jordan Mine

Flood

Bill

$25,000

Cost of putting the flooded copper mine at Jordan River back into operation has been estimated at about $25,000.

The river flowed into the mine Dec. 6 when the roof of a mined-out stope gave way. The waters entered the mine through a 12-by-eight-foot hole.

ANYTHING ELSE

Into this men are pushing timber, car bodies, rocks and anything else obtainable, said J. R. Billingley, mine manager.

When this hole is filled it should be possible to plug the 200-foot-deep hole in the stope. The hole is 150 long and 100 feet wide.

Black Ball manager Pat Frumento said an exact damage figure will not be known until insurance adjusters complete their investigation. Damage was mainly from smoke but there was some structural damage, he said.

He said the MV Coho left on time yesterday morning and the ferry office swung fully into its usual activity without difficulty "except for cleaning up this mess."

WASN'T TOO BAD

"All in all, it wasn't too bad."

Twenty firemen and five rigs emptied all three city fire halls to battle the blaze, which began in a rest room used by customs men. An attendant in an adjacent service station noticed smoke and raised an alarm about 10:15 p.m., some five hours after the rest room was closed for the night.

READY TO BURST

Chief Abbott said smoke and heat had permeated the building and it was on the point of bursting into a major conflagration when it was checked. "The boys made a good stop there."

BLAZE COOLED MATCHES

Seventy-five cases, each containing 720 boxes of matches, were slightly scorched by the blaze. Chief Abbott said the cases were stored on the floor of the warehouse and the draft feeding the blaze actually cooled the cases.

Chief Abbott said the fire had been smoldering for some time and generated "terrific smoke" before flames burst out.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Please reply to this letter in your column.

If, as you stated recently, "Hansen's disease," better known as leprosy, is not easily communicable, why are the lepers isolated?

Why do we need leprosariums, such as the institution in Carville, Louisiana? And why have people been terrified of this loathsome disease since 1000 B.C.?

Why are only close relatives allowed to visit inmates in leprosariums? —R.E.M. OF KENOSHA, WIS.

Dear R.E.M.: I welcome the opportunity to answer your questions, which I'm sure are shared by millions of other readers who know nothing about this disease.

The isolation of "Hansenites" is a hangover from the biblical laws as set forth in the Book of Leviticus. Since little was known about the treatment of any disease in those days, separation from society was the law of the land. This included the mentally ill as well as the physically ill.

Such places as the leprosarium in Carville exist today because ignorant and/or fearful Congressmen refuse to pass legislation which will enable victims of Hansen's disease to be treated in public hospitals.

It is not true that only close relatives can visit patients (not inmates, please) at the leprosarium. Anyone who wishes to visit a leprosarium may do so — as I have done.

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago you had a letter in

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Married 60 Years Ago

By DORAS KIRK

DENMAN ISLAND — "The Queen sends her warm congratulations and good wishes on your Diamond Wedding Day."

The realization that it really was her 60th wedding anniversary came to 93-year-old "Granny Graham" when she read the telegram from Her Majesty.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Graham of Denman Island celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary on Dec. 7 and more than 100 friends and relations called at their farm home that day.

There was also a telegram from Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

The couple's three sons, Clarence, Port Melon, Ernest, Tabula, and Albert, Hornby Island, and two daughters, Vera Bowen, Alberni, and Madeline Picket, Union Bay, were present. There are nine grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren and seven sets of twins in the Graham family.

Three old-timers, Rose Robertson, Irving Percy and James Swan, who were present, were also guests at Mr. and Mrs. Graham's wedding at Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, Mrs. F. Nichols, Seattle, the former Florence Eadie, who was Mrs. Graham's bridesmaid, also sent her best wishes. Arthur Boucher was best man and Rev. Bough Allen performed the wedding ceremony.

Mr. Graham's parents came to Denman Island from New Brunswick in 1878 when he was three years old. While in his early twenties Edward Graham with his brother, Alby, and two Ford brothers (early pioneers of Hornby Island) bought an American racing yacht in Seattle and followed the Trail of '98 gold rush to Alaska.

Mr. Graham worked as an engineer on the SS City of Nanaimo for some years. During this time on one of his stopovers in Victoria, he met his

In 1928 Edward Graham was sworn in as justice of the peace and has held that position ever since. He still takes an active part in keeping his farm in production.

When she came to Victoria, he worked at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Mr. Graham recalls washing dishes at the hospital while he waited for his fiancée to finish her work.

On their wedding day in 1903, the SS City of Nanaimo developed engine trouble and the groom was detained. Strangely coincidental, on their 60th wedding anniversary celebration here, the government ferry

Christmas Introduction Gives Puppy Bad Start

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pity the poor Christmas pup who doesn't get properly introduced to a family.

He gets pinched, pulled, poked and screamed over. A toddler grabs his tail. A crawler yanks an ear. It's enough to make the pup want to roll over and play dead. The trauma only gives the dog a nervous start.

Folks who know dogs say pups get the best start if you introduce them to the family a few days before or after Christmas.

Springing him on the children as a Christmas morning surprise makes for more excitement than is good for a very young dog.

Before the introduction, lecture the young children that the puppy's tail isn't a handle and ears aren't to pull.

Give each child a lesson in the correct way to lift a puppy: one hand under the chest, the other supporting hindquarters.

Here are additional tips from the Pet Food Institute, guaranteed to make a pup's entrance into the family happy for all concerned:

● Confine an untrained pup to a small, paper-covered area most of the time. He'll be easier to housebreak.

No New Polio

OTTAWA (CP)—There were no new cases of paralytic poliomyelitis reported in Canada in the week ended Dec. 12, the health department says. The weekly report shows Quebec with 101 cases for the year. The total for all Canada so far in 1963 is 111, none in B.C.

● Give him a warm bed of his own. It should be protected from drafts and big enough for him to move around in comfortably.

● Allow the pet to eat undisturbed at regular times and to sleep often during the day.

● Pass up the temptation to feed him scraps from the table. If you allow him to beg tidbits, he'll become a finicky eater.

● Groom the pet at least twice a week. Brushing keeps his coat in good condition and helps prevent doggy odor.

● Don't allow anyone to tease or chase the pup. This kind of play encourages excessive barking, snapping and running away when called. These bad habits are hard to overcome once the pattern of behavior is started.

● Don't neglect training your dog to obey. Even a puppy understands a firm, decisive "no." He also recognizes warm praise when you say "good dog."

● Discipline him with your voice; never hit him with your hands. When he needs a spanking use a rolled newspaper.

P.S.—If the dog cries at night, wrap a clock in a soft blanket and put it in his bed. The ticking reminds him of the beat of his momma dog's heart and makes him feel more at home in the new surroundings.

Three-Day Visit

Dame Flora Joined MRA March in India

By EILEEN LEAROLD

Dame Flora MacLeod, that incredible woman from Skye, arrived in town yesterday for a whirlwind three-day visit. There is a song that claims, "there is nothing like a dame," and true it is there is no one quite like Dame Flora, chief of the Clan MacLeod of MacLeod who spends almost as much time out of her Castle Dunvegan as she does in it. She left Skye in October and won't return to that Scottish Isle until February.

Since October she's been to Paris, Rome, Cyprus and India. In India she joined Gandhi's grandson, Raj Mohan Gandhi, in a "march" from Lucknow through Agra to New Delhi, a journey of some 300 miles. "Actually we drove from city to city, but we walked through the cities, sometimes two and three-mile stretches," said Dame Flora.

The purpose of the march was to "protest the corruption going on in India from causes like unpaid taxes to losses on the railways through people not paying fares." Dame Flora said it was impossible to get anything done in India unless bribery was used.

Dame Flora did not say that things were getting out of hand since the British left India, but she inferred it and added that much corruption was probably due to "birth pangs."

The chief of the clan, who says she has been connected with Moral Re-Armament for "about 20 years" entered the march at the side of Mr. Peter Howard, head of MRA, and walked behind her own piper, Sandy Gordon from Skye, through the streets of India. It must have been quite a sight to see the doughty chief who is now a silver-haired, graceful 86, marching to the airs of her Highland pipes alongside the barefoot Hindu, Gandhi.

She said the young Mr. Gandhi had said, "It was wonderful that old woman from Scotland came to share the march with us."

The chief said the crowds sprinkled them with perfumed water and tossed flower petals as they walked. "Moral Re-Armament is a vital force in the world today, we must act with absolute honesty and truth, absolute purity and unselfishness and of course this carries the message of love."

Mr. Peter Howard arrived in town yesterday too, and Dame Flora was having dinner with him at the Empress Hotel to celebrate his birthday.

Tonight she will dine with her Clan "family" at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel and Sunday evening she will hear the carol service at Government House.

Audience with Pope Paul Sept. 20 was part of Bishop Remi J. De Roo's trip to ecumenical council in Rome. At right is Archbishop Maurice Baudoux of St. Boniface, Man., who presided at consecration of Bishop De Roo, his one-time secretary, and came to Victoria one year ago for his installation.

Far-Reaching Change

Greater Local Authority Given Bishops at Rome

The most far-reaching change coming out of the recent sessions of the ecumenical council in Rome is the decentralization of administration. Most Reverend Remi J. De Roo, Bishop of Victoria, said at a press conference this week. "Decentralization has already begun," he said. "From now on groups of bishops will have more local authority than ever before."

MORE LIBERAL VIEW

"It will not mean any lessening of the Pope's authority but a more liberal interpretation of that authority to fit local conditions."

Bishop De Roo, who was installed at St. Andrew's Cathedral just a year ago, returned Sunday from Rome where he attended the Vatican ecumenical council.

The use of English in parts of Roman Catholic church services, promulgated by the Pope Dec. 4, will start Feb. 16. "This is a return to the ancient Christian principle that the individual should understand," the bishop said. "Wherever possible the local language would be used, he said, except in parts of India and Africa where there are as many as 15 different tongues. The increased use of the vernacular will facilitate the trend towards unity of all Christian churches, he said, "although the problem lies elsewhere."

"The problem is whether other faiths will accept the Pope as the prime Christian patriarch. The primacy of Peter as the founder of the Christian church is recognized but not the passage of the primacy to the popes."

NOT FAIR

"But it is not fair or theologically correct to think of union in terms of capitulation. It is better to look at it the way Pope John did. First you meet, greet and speak to one another. They you become friends and walk towards union."

College of Bishops, 2,400 attended the council, 2,200 of them quite regularly. Canadian bishops attending numbered 100, including two cardinals.

The forthcoming visit of Pope Paul to the Holy Land is an "outstanding historical occurrence," the bishop said. "Since St. Peter left Jerusalem there has never been a pope there," he said. "The chances are good for visits to other countries," the bishop said, possibly to Canada and the United States in years to come.

On his way home from Rome Bishop De Roo stopped near Bruges, Belgium, at the town of Lembeke where his parents were born.

The parishioners of the town presented him with an embroidered stole, for his church vestments, bearing his coat-of-arms and that of the town.

Navy Award

PO G. S. Tory, 3043 Austin, has won a cash award from the suggestion award board of the Public Service of Canada.

His suggestion, involving modification to a shipborne radio remote control system, has been adopted for use by the navy.

Bishop De Roo said that out of the 3,000 members of the

Venture Has Final Graduation

The ninth—and last—graduation ceremonies for men of the navy's Venture Plan for training junior officers were completed yesterday at Esquimalt.

Twenty cadets, five of them from Nigeria, took part in ceremonies which began with a morning church service.

INSPECTION, PARTY

Rear-Admiral W. M. Landy, more was inspecting officer at the actual graduation rites in the afternoon at Venture gymnasium, and graduates and guests later attended a tea and cocktail party in the Venture wardroom.

The graduation ball followed in the Venture gunroom.

GO TO SEA

The men will be promoted to the rank of acting sub-lieutenant Jan. 1, and go to sea early in the new year with frigates of Pacific Command's Fourth Escort Squadron.

The Nigerian officers will spend time with the fleet as well, their training leading to upper-deck watch-keeping certificates.

VICTORIAN WINS

A Victoria graduate won a major award at yesterday's ceremonies.

G. C. Gordon, 20, of 53 Lewis, won the Officer of the Watch telescope, presented annually by the department of defence for scholastic proficiency and officer-like qualities.

Cadet Gordon also won top honors for the highest aggregate mark in the senior term and in naval knowledge studies.

TWO OTHER WINNERS

Two other Victoria cadets also won awards. S. R. Price, 3439 Cook, was presented with the officer's sword, given by the Navy League of Canada for outstanding officer-like qualities.

C. D. Rainsford, 3551 Thistle, won the Venture Officers' Shield for athletic ability and sportsmanship.

Rear Admiral Off to U.S.

Rear Admiral W. M. Landy, more left Thursday for the United States to discuss future anti-submarine exercise plans between the second Canadian escort squadron and airborne components of the U.S. at Whidbey Island naval air force station.

Baboon's Kidneys Used

DENVER (UPI) — Doctors of the University of Colorado Medical Centre Friday transplanted the kidneys of a baboon into the body of an unidentified 40-year-old man.

The operation by a famed team of Denver surgeons which has done nearly 50 kidney transplants between humans was the first in Denver in which the organs of an animal were transplanted into a human.

Such operations have been previously performed at Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

A spokesman at the Denver medical centre confirmed reports that the operation—called heterograft—took place, beginning about 9 p.m.

The recipient was in satisfactory condition.

The Denver team over the past year has performed 47 kidney transplant operations, most between other than identical twins and many between non-related persons. About two-thirds of the recipients have survived.

The most recent heterograft patient at New Orleans, Jefferson Davis, a 44-year-old laborer released from the hospital Wednesday, is the only person in history known to have had his life extended by non-human organs.

Davis received the kidneys of a 90-pound chimpanzee.

Tribute Paid Victims

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP) — A biting north wind and sub-zero temperatures prevailed Friday as final tribute was paid to the 82 of the 118 victims of the Nov. 29 crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8F jetliner here.

Eight ministers representing the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches and a rabbi conducted the services for those aboard the ill-fated plane, most of them from Toronto. Some 300 friends and relatives of the victims stood in freezing weather for the burial of two symbolic coffins.

JEWISH RITES
The first service was conducted at noon by Rabbi Alan Langner of the Beth-El Congregation.

Christian services were held at 2:30 p.m. Msgr. Laurent Presseault, Catholic parish priest of Ste. Therese, opened the ceremony and was followed by Rev. C. R. Lang of the Anglican Church of Canada.

Lt.-Col. L. D. Evenden held a Salvation Army service, Rev. E. M. Jenkins, conducted Baptist Church rites.

The Gifts of Christmas

The Gift to the Little Children

By JOHN J. STEWART
Ninth of a Series

As Jesus and His disciples neared a village in the province of Perea, several women came out to meet Him, carrying or leading their little children, some of whom suffered afflictions.

These women knew of the great healing power and of the goodness and compassion of the Master. They were anxious that their children should see Him and hear Him and be blessed by Him.

Jesus and His disciples had been walking and meeting with people all day. They were tired and hungry. Nor did some of the disciples have a high regard for women and children. Despite the Master's earlier teachings to them, they still egotistically felt that only men were of much importance.

So when the women with their children sought Jesus, His disciples rebuked them and told them to go away and not bother the Master.

The boys and girls with their mothers had eagerly anticipated the privilege of meeting Jesus. Especially had those who were ill and afflicted. It was in keen disappointment that they turned to go away.

But when Jesus heard what was said to them, He was much displeased. Immediately He called out to His disciples, saying, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God."

The disciples were astonished at the Master's words. "Verily I say unto you, whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein."

As the disciples murmured among themselves, the mothers and their children came rejoicing unto Jesus.

And He took their little children up in His arms and talked with them and blessed them.

tion... the incentive... they become more reliable, efficient and progressive."

Already you can feel the atmosphere of more money in circulation. Stores stay open late, bowling alleys, movies, and motels are opening.

Unskilled labor is plentiful in New Brunswick, skilled labor is scarce.

Electricians, welders, mechanics and technical tradesmen are being "imported" from the rest of Canada to build smelters, concentrators, paper mills and other industrial plants.

New School

This bothers government leaders. The province, in co-operation with the federal government, will soon open seven new trade and technical schools.

Youths get good jobs as soon as they are qualified.

This year, when Premier Robichaud officially opened a rum distillery and bottling plant (Morgan's) at his home town of Richibucto, he proudly announced that the plant would provide "the first payroll—apart from the schoolboard—in Kent County."

A paint factory (Laurentide) has since opened there because, as manager George Irving says:

"About $8,000,000 worth of paint is sold in the Maritimes each year, yet only $2,000,000 worth is made here. It's a natural market."

Shun Quebec

The Acadian French are gracious, generous and pleasant. They are comfortable to be among, despite their lack of material things. They shy away from Quebec's influence.

Bilingualism is rare, but there's little obvious animosity between French and English. Instead respect is mutual, if guarded.

Independent

As Charles McElman, executive secretary to the premier says: "A New Brunswicker is as independent as a pig on ice."

I was in a hamburger joint in Campbellton when a man entered and asked the proprietor: "Je veux deux hotdogs s'il vous plait."

"To eat here or to go?" asked the proprietor.

"To go; mustard and relish on both," said the man.

"Bon. Attendez un moment," replied the proprietor.

Not Hypersensitive

It was a typical incident. Language in New Brunswick seems a tool for communication rather than a weapon or symbol of hypersensitive attitudes.

Among the Acadians on the north and east coasts, there is taste of a boom. People are perking up.

But in "New Brunswick a boom" simply means adequate employment.

NEXT: Experiment in socialist capitalism.

A previous article stated that Lord Beaverbrook was born in New Brunswick. In fact, he was born in Maple, N.B., and moved to Newcastle, N.B., when very young.

Acadians Not Separatists

By PETER WORTHINGTON
(Third of a Series)

Toronto Telegram News Service
FREDERICTON, N.B. — Quebec advertises itself as La Belle Province and New Brunswick thinks of itself as Canada's bi-cultural province — where French and English customs dovetail rather than collide.

Nearly 240,000 of the province's 600,000 people are of French descent (Acadians), as distinct from Quebecois and they are poor, ill-educated and backward.

The average income in New Brunswick is 25 per cent lower than the Canadian average and almost 40 per cent lower than Ontario's. But the province has the highest ratio of university graduates (seven universities and colleges and also one of the highest illiteracy rates in Canada.

Voice of Change

Despite backwardness and high unemployment among Acadians, little response is heard to the silent voice of separatism in neighboring Quebec.

"We are Canadians—nationalists, not separatists," says Premier Louis Robichaud, himself an Acadian.

This sentiment is echoed throughout the province; Acadians seem to take pride in not being part of the Quebec dissension.

Acadians, who first settled here in 1610, have greater cause for feeling hostile to the English than have Quebecers.

It was Acadians who were transported and persecuted in 1755, and who, after 1776 were driven out of the rich farm country astride the Saint John River.

Today, the English occupy the centre and south, the French the inhospitable coasts and northern bush.

French, English Customs Merged

Work is seasonal, pay is low, unemployment is high.

The north and east coast are the main areas for a Great Leap Forward into industrialization that Robichaud has planned.

The government offers tax reductions and loans to industries that will move in.

ing Co. moved to Campbellton on the north shore, and now employs 500 residents making telephones for the U.S. Army.

"Our biggest problem is to train these people, who have a pioneer heritage, into the ways of a technical economy," said Frank Herring, manager of Radio Engineering.

Mr. Herring said a big problem was instilling reliability into employees.

"People who can exist on $5 a week, as they do here, can't see why they need $25 a week. We have to teach them to be motivated by a desire for more money... to get them addicted to making money, like taking dope," he said.

Canada's Economy Rises To New Rate in Billions

OTTAWA (CP) — The growth rate of Canada's economy continued in the third quarter of 1963, with the gross national product rising 1.3 per cent to an annual rate of $43,000,000,000, the bureau of statistics estimated Friday.

About one-third of the gain from the second-quarter level of $42,436,000,000 was accounted for by higher prices. The figure for gross national product—total value of goods and services produced—is adjusted to discount seasonal fluctuations.

SIMILAR GAINS
The increase of 1.3 per cent was a continuation of similar gains which have been apparent since early in 1962. It was the 10th consecutive quarterly increase.

Since the last business recession ended in early 1961, the gross national product has advanced 19 per cent, about three-fourths of which represents a gain in real terms. In the third quarter prices rose by about .5 per cent.

GORDON FORECAST

The growth rate of the economy increased .5 per cent in the first quarter of 1963 and by 1.2 per cent in the second.

Finance Minister Gordon, in June 13 budget, forecast a five-per-cent rise in national output this year, with about one-third of the gain resulting from higher prices. In a recent speech Privy Council President Maurice Lamontagne revised the forecast to six per cent.

The bureau said the gross national product in the first nine months of 1963 was six per cent above the same period a year ago and had advanced 4.25 per cent from the end of 1962.

Main reason has been consumer spending, which accounted for one-half of the rise. However, other sectors of demand registered relatively greater gains.

ALL HIGHER
Exports of merchandise were particularly strong and investment in machinery and equipment and government expenditures on goods and services were all higher by six per cent or more.

Spending by individuals increased by more than $350,000,000 to an annual rate of

Exports declined fractionally to an annual rate of $8,900,000,000. Imports rose four per cent to a rate of $9,700,000,000. As a result, Canada's trade deficit more than doubled in the second quarter, to $700,000,000 from $300,000,000.

Net national income rose a little to $32,800,000,000. Farm income jumped 1.5 per cent while corporation profits edged downward by two per cent after three successive quarterly increases.

The labor force grew by one per cent.

Can't Collect Fee

Lawyer Elected Loses $1,200

OTTAWA (CP) — Larry Pennell, 48-year-old Liberal MP for the Ontario riding of Brant-Haldimand, enjoys a unique distinction among members of Parliament.

He is the only member whose election to Parliament prevented him collecting money owed him for work he had done.

TOOK ON DEFENCE
Mr. Pennell, a lawyer, was elected to Parliament in 1962. Just before he was nominated, he agreed to defend a client charged with murder.

The trial was held just after election day in 1962 and Mr. Pennell won acquittal on the murder charge for his client, who was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to two years in prison.

SEAT AT STAKE
His fee was $1,200. But to collect it he would have had to resign his parliamentary seat.

The reason is the money was owed him by the federal government which, under certain circumstances, pays the defence costs of Indians charged with murder.

TWO ACTS INVOLVED
Because of provisions of the Canada Elections Act and the Senate and House of Commons Act, Mr. Pennell was faced with the choice—collect the fee, which meant resignation, or keep his seat and kiss the fee goodbye.

Section 20 of the Canada Elections Act says no one can be an election candidate who accepts employment from the federal government to which a fee is attached.

Section 10 of the Senate and House of Commons Act repeats the Election Act prohibition for anyone elected who wants to take his seat, and Section 15 prohibits anyone collecting the fee on Mr. Pennell's behalf.

Man Jailed For Johnson 'Death Note'

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A self-styled "social psychiatrist" from Sioux City, Iowa, yesterday was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner for possessing a note calling for the assassination of President Johnson.

The man, Robert Beaty Fennell, 29, appeared before Commissioner Cameron Wolfe, who set bail at $5,000 and put over the case to Jan. 3 for hearing.

U.S. Attorney Cecil Poole said he would ask for a psychiatric examination of Fennell.

Fennell, a soft-spoken slender man with a beard, admitted the letter he was carrying when arrested near Berkeley, Calif., Thursday night was "perhaps a little bit extreme" but added: "I feel I have the right to write what I please."

No Bids at Auction

Land Likely to Go To Mortgage Firm

Property at the northeast corner of Douglas and Hillside is expected to go to the company holding the first mortgage on it after no one bid on it at a sheriff's auction this week.

Lifejacket Rule Advocated

A coroner's jury in the death Wednesday of a man working on a log boom in the Inner Harbour recommended yesterday that the company involved enforce the wearing of lifejackets by such employees.

The jury in the inquest conducted by Dr. J. H. Moore brought in a verdict of death by accidental drowning in the death of Arnold Graham, 54, of 765 Audley.

Mr. Graham, a CNR deckhand, was working for McCarter Shingle Company, 2418 Rock Bay, on a day off from his CNR job when a fellow-worker noticed him missing and raised an alarm.

Mr. Graham was not wearing a lifejacket. His body was recovered by navy divers.

About 12 persons attended the sheriff's auction but no body bid for the property, up for auction at a minimum price of $104,000, which was occupied by the Monterey restaurant until the restaurant burned down a couple of years ago.

PARLEYS COLLAPSED

The owner of the land was negotiating with several prospects for sale of the land but negotiations collapsed when it was announced the land would be put up for auction to pay off mortgage company debts.

David Youngson, counsel for the Centennial Mortgage Corporation Ltd., Vancouver, which holds the first mortgage on the land, said under the terms of a court order the land would go to the first mortgage holder if it was not sold at the auction.

BANK ASKED AUCTION

He said Centennial Mortgage had delayed taking over the property because the second-mortgage holder, the Toronto-Dominion Bank, wanted it auctioned.

Victoria Remembers Needy with $24.75 Each

Citizens of Greater Victoria who find themselves with spirits ebbing this Christmas have once again been given a glow of warmth by the knowledge that fellow citizens do care and have not forgotten.

The Daily Colonist Christmas 500 Fund has again found most people in Greater Victoria have not only not forgotten—but also are willing to put their thoughts into deeds and help others who sometimes find life's road a rocky one. The fund total, which reached $12,379.19 when the books were closed at 5:30 p.m. yesterday, means each of Greater Victoria's 500 most needy families will receive $24.75. Cheques for that amount are in the mail today—gifts from fellow citizens, tangible wishes for a Merry Christmas. The 500 Fund was born for the use of citizens of Greater Victoria to help any of their fellows who need a lift at Christmas. The thousands of individuals and the many groups who helped through the fund will not know the people they helped—but then they just wanted to do something for them. During the drive, some of the needy families were interviewed and their stories written. It would be impossible to write the stories of all 500 but the few that were written give an idea of the unfortunate cir-

Treaty Talks Best Yet

OTTAWA (CP) — The "most important and most successful" round of Columbia River treaty negotiations with the United States since a new series began last April was reported Friday night by External Affairs Minister Martin.

Federal, British Columbia and U.S. negotiators worked Friday on draft documents for the sale of a big block of B.C. power and the financing of three storage dams in B.C. by these payments.

More talks will be held next week and again about Jan. 9 in Washington, Mr. Martin said after a hard-driving day begun

Firesetting Frustrates Firemen

HAMILTON (CP) — City firemen met with something less than blazing success Friday when they tried to demonstrate what serious hazards Christmas trees are.

With reporters and photographers in attendance, the firemen set small pots of burning gasoline beneath an evergreen and stepped back to await the conflagration.

Nothing happened, however, so a little more gasoline was added.

This didn't prompt combustion either, so a few more pots were set under the tree. Wild cheering broke out among the newspaper men. A flame had flickered up the Christmas tree.

"I would have to say that the test was inconclusive," a fire department official commented.

'Stickmen' Stick in Craw

Ex-Emblem of Canada's Fair

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons turned a glassy-eyed stare Friday on the "stickmen" symbol devised for the 1967 world fair in Montreal.

It reacted with words such as "monstrosity," "weird" and "sickening" before tossing the symbol out and ordering a new one to be designed before the end of 1964. (See also Page 14.)

"A combination of a tractor wheel and a bunch of power poles," said Bert Leboe (SC—Cariboo).

"A beatnik type of symbol," said Gerald Regan (L—Halifax).

State Secretary Pickersgill said he hoped it would be a lesson to governments not to submit art to legislation.

He doubted if there would be a national gallery if MPs had to decide on its contents.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was the first to take aim at the symbol during debate on a bill which, among other things, declares a copy-right on the symbol. He eventually moved an amending motion to wipe it out.

He called it "a monstrosity — an artistic monstrosity."

"It's difficult to understand a series of angles chasing one another in regular array around a circle."

Mr. Diefenbaker, with a

Auschwitz Guard

'Hitler's Little Helper' Brags of Lethal Skill

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — A former guard at the Auschwitz "death factory," where the Nazis exterminated an estimated 4,000,000 people during the Second World War, bragged Friday of his efficiency at the opening of West Germany's biggest war crimes trial.

Twenty-two former officials at the infamous concentration camp in Poland, dubbed "Hitler's little helpers," have been accused of scores of specific crimes outlined in an indictment four times as long as the Bible.

About 40 armed policemen guarded the huge chamber in Frankfurt's city hall, jammed with the defendants and their counsel, court officials and prosecution attorneys, witnesses and newsmen. An armed policeman sat beside each of the accused.

Each in turn was required to give the court a brief account of his history. Most gave excuses—fidgeting hands and twitching muscles showing their nervousness.

But William Boger, 56, former Gestapo top sergeant described by the prosecution as the "cruellest guard," while

Nazi Hate 'Filling' Canada

TORONTO (UPI) — A prominent Jewish rabbi charged Friday "the Nazi invasion of the minds of Canadians has reached its highest peak since the end of the war."

Rabbi Abraham Feinberg, rabbi emeritus of Toronto's Holy Blossom Temple and national vice-president of the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, said Canada was becoming a centre for neo-Nazism.

"During the 20 years of my Toronto residence, I have never received so much anti-semitic abuse in the mail as I have during recent weeks," the rabbi said.

He said Canada, particularly Toronto, was becoming a centre in the "new international network of Nazism which seeks again to plunge the world into violence and war."

Feinberg

He suggested the RCMP launch an investigation into the increased incidents of anti-semitism, rather than investigating the political leanings of university students.

"Perhaps the time has come for the guardians of our security to leave young college radicals alone, and smell out the purveyors of hate — whether the particular brand be anti-semitism, Negro prejudice, Catholic baiting or venomous mudslinging in the French-English conflict."

"Breeder of hate are enemy No. 1 in Canada."

Police Trio Crime Plotters?

OTTAWA (CP)—Inspector of Detectives Borden Hobbs and two other senior detectives were suspended by the Ottawa Police Commission Friday pending an investigation into charges that they helped plan a break-in at the home of an Ottawa man.

Magistrate Glenn Strike said a provincial police inspector will be in Ottawa sometime today to investigate charges that the three detectives helped plan a break-in at the home of Benjamin Achbar.

ENTERED HOME

The charge was made in magistrate's court Thursday by 33-year-old Royal Bard of South Hull, Que., who along with two others was nabbed by police when he entered the Achbar home.

Bard said in court that police helped him plan the crime in order to trap two other men. Bard, who had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary but Magistrate Joachim Sauve said he would withdraw the prison sentence if Bard's story is true.

BAIL SLASHED

Florian Lemieux, 36, Jean Guy Guindon, 30, both of Ottawa, the other men arrested in the Achbar home by police, were remanded in court Friday after pleading not guilty to charges of breaking and entering. Magistrate Sauve cut their bail from $10,000 to $100.

11 Fishermen Lost in Storm

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Antara news agency said Friday an Indonesian fishing boat capsized in heavy weather off the coast of Central Java last week with loss of 11 lives. The agency said one man of the 12 aboard was rescued after drifting a week on a plank.

'Delicate Factors' Past, Says Ottawa

IMMIGRANT WINS FIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Favreau announced in the Commons Friday night he has decided to allow Irene Rebrin to remain in Canada as a landed immigrant.

He said the move does not imply that any previous decision was improper in the case of the 36-year-old blonde lecturer in Slavonic languages at the University of British Columbia.

Miss Rebrin, born in China of White Russian parents, originally entered Canada in 1958 and was ordered deported in January, 1959.

LEGAL BATTLE

She subsequently lost a two-year legal battle in the Supreme Court of Canada against the federal deportation order.

Miss Rebrin, however, was allowed to stay in Canada because of other pending court actions in which she was involved, and also because there was no place to send her.

Meanwhile, the deportation case was again reviewed and Mr. Favreau announced Friday night his decision to let her stay as a landed immigrant.

DELICATE FACTOR

The immigration minister said the case was "relatively complex" and involved "certain delicate factors."

"The review of the case is now complete," he said. "I have decided that Miss Rebrin should be admitted as a landed immigrant."

Miss Rebrin was described in the Commons as a security risk by both former prime minister Diefenbaker and immigration minister Ellen Fairclough after Miss Rebrin was arrested in April, 1960, for not leaving Canada voluntarily under the deportation order.

VISITOR'S VISA

The lecturer first arrived in Canada from Brazil on a visitor's visa that subsequently expired.

The deportation order was dated Jan. 22, 1959, and described her as a member of a class of persons prohibited entry to Canada as landed immigrants.

The deportation order was appealed through the British Columbia Supreme and Appeal courts and finally before the Supreme Court of Canada.

FACTS AS NOW

Mr. Favreau said the case had been decided on the basis of facts as they exist now. The decision should not be taken as reflecting on the previous decision.

He said he is aware that Miss Rebrin has a court case for libel pending against somebody and added that his decision

'Mother, Close Eyes, I Have a Surprise'

WILMINGTON, Calif. (UPI)—How an 18-year-old college psychology student followed a seven-point plot to kill his mother and father and make it appear as murder-suicide was described yesterday by police.

Police said they would seek a murder complaint against Fred Kipp Bassett, student at Long Beach State College, after they listened to his statement of admission and read the "script."

His plot called for him to "plug G in M's hand," after the shooting during which he was to "wear plastic hood, leather gloves for shot."

"I'd been planning to kill them for years," detectives quoted him as saying.

"At first I was going to use a rolling pin. Then I thought an icepick would be better. I finally decided on a gun."

The deaths Thursday of Fred Bassett Sr., 47, and Mrs. Margaret Bassett, 43, at first were described by police as a murder-suicide. Police at first said Mrs. Bassett had shot her husband and then herself.

NOTE GAVE PLANS

But a note was found in the son's room outlining the murder plans.

The suspect, jailed on suspicion of murder, said his father had been home all day working on insurance business in his study.

"When mother came home at 3:45 p.m., I told her to go into the bedroom and close her eyes, that I had a surprise for her," he told detectives. "I shot her in the head."

Canadians In Distress

BOSTON (UPI)—A 131-foot disabled Canadian fishing vessel is reported riding out a southwest gale in the North Atlantic about 500 miles off Rockland, Maine, while awaiting assistance from a U.S. Coast Guard cutter.

The Arcadia Neptune of St. John's, Nfld., was drifting helplessly in 25-foot waves with a broken rudder.

Recreation Body Sought

DUNCAN — The most practical way to prevent the Cowichan School Board from getting too involved with recreational activities is the formation of a recreation commission by the municipalities here with a full-time manager, Gordon Pynn of the recreation branch of the department of education told trustees Thursday night.

A great number of these activities is held on school property, and trustee Isobel Tarlton felt the board's primary concern should be education, no recreation.

Free Schools For Jobless

WINNIPEG (UPI) — Unemployed persons receiving welfare payments will receive free education in city schools, starting next month.

Schools superintendent Dr. W. C. Lorimer said the classes would be held in the late afternoon and evenings and would cover general academic subjects. Thirty-two persons already have signed up.

Santa Parachutes Gifts To Primitive Indians

WINNIPEG (CP) — Food, clothing and toys tumbled to the ground by parachute Friday as Santa Claus swept over Little Grand Rapids, Man. in a big air force plane.

This is the eighth year of the Christmas drop to the Saulteaux Indian settlement of 560 people, described by an Indian affairs spokesman as "almost the most primitive" Indian community in Manitoba.

SCANT EDUCATION
Little Grand Rapids lies in lake, river and muskeg country 200 miles northeast of Winnipeg. It has neither roads nor electric lights. The scantily educated adults live by fishing, hunting and trapping.

Besides the log and frame homes of the Saulteaux, Little

TRAINING FLIGHT
In 1955 an RCAF search and rescue crew on a training flight to the area was touched by the plight of the people, and decided to do something to brighten their Christmas.

The air force worked out a scheme with the help of a chaplain at RCAF station Gimli, 50 miles north of here.

Under the plan, RCAF search and rescue training flights out of Winnipeg into the area around Christmas time agreed to carry a cargo of gifts.

EIGHT YEARS
In the eight years since then, women's organizations and Sunday schools of Gimli Protestant and Roman Catholic chapels have arranged collection of gifts.

Each Indian family also receives a gift package that includes food, clothing and toys for each child of the family.

Much-Jailed Motorist Jailed Again

TORONTO (CP) — A 25-year-old motorist who said he has spent four years in jail for driving convictions was sentenced to six months Thursday for driving while his licence was under suspension.

Magistrate C. A. Thoburn said he was the third magistrate to recommend William McStravick's licence be cancelled for life. He refused McStravick time to pay a $300 fine.

REINSTATED
McStravick, whose record includes five convictions for driving under suspension and four for leaving the scene of an accident, had his licence reinstated by Highway Minister MacNaughton earlier this year. "I'm amazed the minister would reinstate his licence after such a short time against the recommendations of Magistrate William Rogers and Magistrate S. T. Bigelow," Magistrate Thoburn said.

"But the minister takes the responsibility, not me."

McStravick was stopped in 1962 for driving while his licence was under suspension but ran away from police. He went to Vancouver and was arrested there last week.

Men to Serve At Dinner

DUNCAN — Tonight's Christmas dinner of the Cowichan branch, Royal Canadian Legion, will have a special feature.

Instead of the women of the auxiliary serving the Legionnaires, the reverse will be the rule, and all auxiliary members planning to attend are asked to notify the secretary.

One of the dinner's highlights will be a tombola. During a recent auxiliary meeting the following members were appointed to the 1964 executive: Mrs. Alice Berner, Mrs. Pam Bulcock, Mrs. Jessie Tempest, Mrs. Beryl Mackie, Mrs. Evelyn Forrest and Mrs. Nellie Dale.

The new committees consist of: ways and means, Alice Berner; district council, Mary Day; district council, Mable Cross; bingo, May Bulcock; Pam Bulcock and Nellie Dale; kitchen, Alice Berner and Mrs. K. Douglas; social assistance, Ivy Chadwick, and press representative, Neva Topliss.

Cab Driver To Appeal

Around the Island Job Plan Approved

VANCOUVER (CP) — An agreement launching a controversial job training program has been signed by the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) and coast employer representatives, it was announced yesterday.

Jack Moore, western region president of the IWA, said the agreement has been signed with Forest Industrial Relations and the program will start operations as soon as possible.

The plan is designed to train prospective millwrights and to upgrade present millwrights. The training is voluntary but millwrights who participate and pass an examination will receive an additional 10 cents an hour.

Last week, Syd Thompson, president of the IWA's 7,000-member Vancouver local denounced the program as being unfair to long-time journeyman millwrights who did not take the examination. In some cases it would imperil their jobs, he said. Mr. Thompson called for the ouster of regional officers who supported it.

The IWA's Duncan local also criticized the plan.

NANAIMO — Cedar Valley Riding Club has made Mayor Pete Maffeo, W. Anders and Mrs. Walker honorary members in recognition of their interest and services to the club.

Jaycees Little Helpers

Gulf Islands Cheer

Santa Claus Ships at Sea

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

This weekend I am to be one of Santa's little helpers. On the invitation of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, I was to embark overnight last night at Sidney on the Jaycee Santa Claus ship which is sailing through the Gulf Islands today and Sunday bringing Christmas cheer to the children of the islands.

The Santa Claus ship, K. J. Norgaard's 65-foot yacht Blue Fjord, was moored at Sidney last night so the local residents could admire its bright Christmas decorations.

The ship is one of two to travel through the Gulf Islands bringing Christmas cheer and Santa to children in both Canadian and U.S. ports.

The Christmas ship, operated by Bellingham Jaycees, will leave Bellingham today around the early morning hour when the Santa ship leaves Sidney. The Bellingham ship has been travelling the Gulf Island waters for some Christmases now, but it's the first year for the Victoria Jaycee ship.

Our ship was to leave Sidney at 7 a.m. today. Our first stop is Roche Harbor at 9 a.m., followed by Friday

Harbor at 10:15 a.m. and Deer Harbor at 12:30 p.m. Next stop after these U.S. points is Ganges, Salt Spring Island, where we are to arrive at 4 p.m.

Jaycees on the Bellingham ship also are to arrive at Ganges tonight. Both ships will leave Ganges Sunday morning.

First stop for our ship Sunday will be Kuper Island at 9 a.m. Then it's on to Kuleet Bay at 10:15 a.m., Sibell Bay at 11 a.m. and Maple Bay at 2:15 p.m.

At Maple Bay Duncan Jaycees have laid on a party for 40 crippled or needy children. We are due back at Sidney at 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

The Bellingham ship, the 73-foot cannery tender Karluk, leaves Bellingham at 8 a.m. today and goes to Blakely Island, Lopez Island, Shaw Island and Orcas. It then crosses into Canadian waters for stops at Sidney at 2:30 p.m. and Ganges at 5:30 p.m.

Sunday it will visit Mayne, North Pender and Saturna Islands and, in U.S. waters, the Potosi Island Coast Guard Station, Waldron Island and Lummi Island. It will reach Bellingham about 6 p.m.

Murdoch Hails 'Amiable Manner'

Don't Merge—Aim to Unity
Oak Bay Reeve's Last Word

By IAN STREET

Reeve George Murdoch, on the eve of his retirement after 18 years in public life, yesterday told the heads of other Greater Victoria municipalities he hoped Oak Bay would retain its autonomy in the future.

"I hope my worthy successor (reeve-elect Allan Cox) will see that we in this municipality retain our autonomy, but at the same time continue to work toward greater unity of Greater Victoria," he said.

Reeve Murdoch paid tribute to the "amiable manner" in which affairs of mutual concern had been dealt with by the intermunicipal committee during the past two years.

"Oak Bay, I'm sure, has been as much to blame as anyone else for the bickering and backbiting that has characterized some of our deliberations in years past.

'Great Pleasure'

"But it is a great pleasure to sit in a friendly atmosphere and work out our problems," he said.

Reeve Stanley Murphy, on behalf of Saanich council, presented the retiring reeve with a bouquet of flowers for Mrs. Murdoch in recognition of "her part in your long career."

The intermunicipal committee named Ald. Austin Curtis to call a meeting early in January of the special subcommittee which is to study proposed changes in the Victoria public library agreement.

Victoria appointed Ald. Curtis and Ald. Lily Wilson as its

named Coun. Walter Dodsworth and Saanich will be represented by Coun. Harold Todd. Esquimalt, which had provisionally appointed retiring councillor Bert Nelson, will choose another representative.

The city holds sole voting rights on the library board and wants to make arrangements for sharing of capital investment in the older portion of the library before giving other municipalities a vote.

All municipalities have agreed to participate in the proposed $74,000 survey of long-range sewer needs in the Greater Victoria area.

Terms Ordered

The intermunicipal committee ordered its technical subcommittee to draw up terms of reference. These will be used in calling for tenders.

Coun. Cox reported that, at a recent meeting of Greater Victoria health board, an "informal request" was received from Central Saanich to participate in the survey.

The intermunicipal committee asked Capital Region Planning Board to prepare a report on feasibility of Hugh Stephenson's proposal to set up a joint fund for acquisition of parkland on the Saanich peninsula. In a report to the Chamber of Commerce Mr. Stephen suggested all municipalities contribute one half mill to the fund.

A request by Greater Victoria Celebrations Association for nearly double the amount of municipal grants next year was rejected by the intermunicipal committee. It referred the request to individual councils to deal with "on merit."

The association said in a letter that more than three-quarters of the $7,000 in receipts during the year came from municipal grants. It asked for this to be increased to $10,000 in 1964 to provide a firm basis for expansion.

Christmas Lighting

Car Club to Take Elderly on Tour

Residents of Matson Lodge, Salvation Army home for elderly people, will have a chance to see decorated homes entered in the Jaycee Christmas Lighting Contest.

Members of the Coachmen Car Club will call at the lodge

Monday evening for residents who wish to see the lights.

"We started last year to take any of the residents to see the lights and the response was so great that we have decided to make it an annual outing," said Jerry Clarke, president of the club.

Gasoline Prices Closer

Gas prices have changed again in Victoria with brand-name gasolines reduced and cut-rate brands increased.

Last week prices were 37.9 and 42.9 at the cut-rate stations and one cent more at the standard-brand stations. Imperial increased its prices to 40.9 and 45.9. Other brand stations followed suit.

Thursday Causeway Esso service dropped one cent and other brand stations followed.

Woodward's, Mayfair and Mohawk increased prices by one cent and are now one cent below the standard price stations.

Room At Top

It's not necessary to wait for heat wave to put a sun top to use. This week many people are figuring out ways to transport Christmas trees home and Bruce Passmore of 911 Claremont found simple solution when he rolled back sun roof and took on his tree as passenger. — (Bud Kinsman.)

Jaycees to Hold Convention In Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Between 400 and 500 Jaycees and their wives will descend on Nanaimo May 27 for the first Jaycee provincial convention to be held here.

Jaycee-ettes will hold their convention at the same time, and Nanaimo's major hotels are booked solid.

At this week's meeting, plans were outlined by Bill Currie and Les Mottishaw, who are in charge of convention arrangements.

Convention sessions are to be arranged so delegates and their wives will have time for sightseeing and shopping.

UN DANCE

A United Nations dance is planned by the Jaycees for some time in January, when various ethnic groups are going to be asked to attend in national costume.

A speakers' training course will again be operated by the club. Starting in January, the courses will be under the instruction of Dr. T. C. Cosgrave.

Cut Losses

Cagers Need Funds

DUNCAN—"I hope it is not too late to get extra funds to offset our losses so far this year," said Duncan Basketball Association spokesman Bob Evans, after the Cowichan school board reconsidered its original decision to charge the association $107 per night for exhibition games in Cowichan High School auditorium.

Thursday, trustees agreed to charge only $3 per hour on exhibition game nights, and $1.50 per hour for practice sessions, but it was suggested other arrangements will be made next season.

LONST CHANCE

Mr. Evans said his association lost a chance to make money when the Harlem Clowns bypassed Duncan in November.

He said this team is a good drawing card, and it was the first time in the past 20 years it did not play here, because of the high rental fee.

OTHER TEAMS

Mr. Evans stated it is hoped to bring two other teams here for exhibition games, the Athletics from Alberni and the Haida Chiefs from Victoria.

For several weeks the basketball association struggled to have the auditorium fee reduced after the board approved of a new policy of rental fees. Mr. Evans, at a previous board meeting, told trustees if they would not reconsider their decision, junior basketball in this district would be doomed.

Damage $25,000

Firefighters Made 'Good Stop'

Fire would have involved the whole Black Ball Ferry Building, 816 Wharf, if firefighters had arrived five minutes later than they did Thursday night, Victoria Fire Chief John Abbott said last night.

As it was, he estimated, $20,000 to $25,000 damage was done. The entire area where the fire was will have to be repainted and renovated, he said.

Black Ball manager Pat Furmento said an exact damage figure will not be known until insurance adjusters complete their investigation. Damage was mainly from smoke but there was some structural damage, he said.

He said the MV Coho left on time yesterday morning and the ferry office swung fully into its usual activity without difficulty "except for cleaning up this mess."

WASN'T TOO BAD

"All in all, it wasn't too bad."

Twenty firemen and five rigs emptied all three city fire halls to battle the blaze, which began in a rest room used by customs men. An attendant in an adjacent service station noticed smoke and raised an alarm about 10:15 p.m., some five hours after the rest room was closed for the night.

READY TO BURST

Chief Abbott said smoke and heat had permeated the building and it was on the point of bursting into a major conflagration when it was checked. "The boys made a good stop there."

BLAZE COOLED MATCHES

Seventy-five cases, each containing 720 boxes of matches, were slightly scorched by the blaze. Chief Abbott said the cases were stored on the floor of the warehouse and the draft feeding the blaze actually cooled the cases.

Chief Abbott said the fire had been smoldering for some time and generated "terrific smoke" before flames burst out.

Christmas greetings from Lt.-Col. G. G. Brown, officers and men of 1st Battalion, PPCLI, at Fort MacLeod, Germany, arrived here by wire yesterday. Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night.

Jordan Mine

Flood Bill

$25,000

Cost of putting the flooded copper mine at Jordan River back into operation has been estimated at about $25,000.

The river flowed into the mine Dec. 6 when the roof of a mined-out stope gave way. The waters entered the mine through a 12-by-eight-foot hole.

ANYTHING ELSE

Into this men are pushing timber, car bodies, rocks and anything else obtainable, said J. R. Bingley, mine manager. When this hole is filled it should be possible to plug the 300-foot-deep hole in the stope. The hole is 150 long and 100 feet wide.

Seismic Soundings

Bridge Site Given Tests

NANAIMO—The hoped-for Newcastle Island bridge came a step closer when seismic sounding operations were carried out at Brechin Point this week.

Last summer an engineering survey was made to determine the best practical site for a bridge. The Brechin Point area was chosen because the channel is at its narrowest at that point and the approaches are high enough to give the more than 60-foot clearance necessary.

The seismic-sounding data will determine depths and rock conditions under the mud.

The soundings and survey do not mean that work is definitely to be started.

They are only part of necessary steps which must be taken to determine the feasibility of the project.

Newcastle Island, which is owned by the provincial government and is slated for development as a provincial park recreational area, cannot be used to maximum capacity under the present ferry system of access, which is limited.

UNDERWATER BLASTS

While the seismic underwater explosions were taking place, the Nanaimo harbor control boat kept shipping clear of the area. The explosions give instruments, which operate on an echo principle, data on the nature of the sea bottom.

A fishing vessel stood guard to watch for any excessive damage to marine life by the explosions but the only casualties were a few codfish.

Practical Nurses Get Diplomas

NANAIMO—Practical nurses from the Nanaimo Vocational School graduated Thursday at a ceremony at which they were presented with their diplomas.

Miss E. D. Priestly, supervisor of public health nurses for Central Vancouver Island, presented pins and certificates to the 13 graduates.

Graduates are: Laura Ashdown, Barbara Campbell, Kathleen Forbister, Tonia Hartman, Holly Johnson, Geraldine Lonsdale, Linda Smith, Linda Webb, Mrs. L. Zelle, Mrs. L. Francour and Mrs. Clarice Collins.

Guest speaker Sir Phillip Livingston told the graduates as they would be dealing with sick people, it was most important to remember that they were individuals.

The most vital part of nursing and the most effective treatment, he said, is putting the patient's mind at rest.

The prize for the student with the highest academic standing went to Mrs. Collins.

School Plans First Reunion

Mount Douglas High School will hold its first reunion for graduates Dec. 28.

The gathering will be a dance at the Club Sirocco from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Further information can be obtained from Donna Read at EV 6-2387 or Bonnie Hendra at EV 2-0877.

Victoria Remembers Needy with $24.75 Each

Citizens of Greater Victoria who find themselves with spirits ebbing this Christmas have once again been given a glow of warmth by the knowledge that fellow citizens do care and have not forgotten.

The Daily Colonist Christmas 500 Fund has again found most people in Greater Victoria have not only not forgotten—but also are willing to put their thoughts into deeds and help others who sometimes find life's road a rocky one. The fund total, which reached $12,379.19 when the books were closed at 5:30 p.m. yesterday, means each of Greater Victoria's 500 most needy families will receive $24.75. Cheques for that amount are in the mail today—gifts from fellow citizens, tangible wishes for a Merry Christmas. The 500 Fund was born for the use of citizens of Greater Victoria to help any of their fellows who need a lift at Christmas. The thousands of individuals and the many groups who helped through the fund will not know the people they helped—but then they just wanted to do something for them. During the drive, some of the needy families were interviewed and their stories written. It would be impossible to write the stories of all 500 but the few that were written give an idea of the unfortunate cir-

Treaty Talks Best Yet

OTTAWA (CP) — The "most important and most successful" round of Columbia River treaty negotiations with the United States since a new series began last April was reported Friday night by External Affairs Minister Martin.

Federal, British Columbia and U.S. negotiators worked Friday on draft documents for the sale of a big block of B.C. power and the financing of three storage dams in B.C. by these payments.

More talks will be held next week and again about Jan. 9 in Washington. Mr. Martin said after a hard-driving day begun

Firesetting Frustrates Firemen

HAMILTON (CP) — City firemen met with something less than blazing success Friday when they tried to demonstrate what serious fire hazards Christmas trees are.

With reporters and photographers in attendance, the firemen set small pots of burning gasoline beneath an evergreen and stepped back to await the conflagration.

Nothing happened, however, so a little more gasoline was added.

This didn't prompt combustion either, so a few more pots were set under the tree.

Wild cheering broke out among the newspaper men. A flame had flickered up the Christmas tree.

"I would have to say that the test was inconclusive," a fire department official commented.

Fair Symbol Laughed Out of Commons

'Stickmen' Stick in Craw

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons turned a glassy-eyed stare Friday on the "stickmen" symbol devised for the 1967 world fair in Montreal.

It reacted with words such as "monstrosity," "weird" and "sickening," before tossing the symbol out and ordering a new one to be designed before the end of 1964. (See also Page 14.)

"A combination of a tractor wheel and a bunch of power poles," said Bert Leboe (SC—Cariboo).

"A beatnik type of symbol," said Gerald Regan (L—Halifax). State Secretary Pickersgill said he hoped it would be a lesson to governments not to submit art to legislation.

He doubted if there would be a national gallery if MPs had to decide on its contents. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was the first to take aim at the symbol during debate on a bill which, among other things, declares a copy-right on the symbol. He eventually moved an amending motion to wipe it out. He called it "a monstrosity" — an artistic monstrosity.

"It's difficult to understand a series of angles chasing one another in regular array around a circle." Mr. Diefenbaker, with a

Auschwitz Guard

'Hitler's Little Helper' Brags of Lethal Skill

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — A former guard at the Auschwitz "death factory," where the Nazis exterminated an estimated 4,000,000 people during the Second World War, bragged Friday of his efficiency at the opening of West Germany's biggest war crimes trial.

Twenty-two former officials at the infamous concentration camp in Poland, dubbed "Hitler's little helpers," have been accused of scores of specific crimes outlined in an indictment four times as long as the Bible.

About 40 armed policemen guarded the huge chamber in Frankfurt's city hall, jammed with the defendants and their counsel, court officials and prosecution attorneys, witnesses and newsmen. An armed policeman sat beside each of the accused.

Each in turn was required to give the court a brief account of his history. Most gave excuses—fidgeting hands and twitching muscles showing their nervousness.

But William Boger, 56, former Gestapo top sergeant described by the prosecution as the "cruellest guard," while

Nazi Hate 'Filling' Canada

TORONTO (UPI) — A prominent Jewish rabbi charged Friday "the Nazi invasion of the minds of Canadians has reached its highest peak since the end of the war."

Rabbi Abraham Feinberg, rabbi emeritus of Toronto's Holy Blossom Temple and national vice-president of the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, said Canada was becoming a centre for neo-Nazism.

"During the 20 years of my Toronto residence, I have never received so much anti-semitic abuse in the mail as I have during recent weeks," the rabbi said.

He said Canada, particularly Toronto, was becoming a centre in the "new international network of Nazism which seeks again to plunge the world into violence and war."

Feinberg

He suggested the RCMP launch an investigation into the increased incidents of anti-semitism, rather than investigating the political leanings of university students.

"Perhaps the time has come for the guardians of our security to leave young college radicals alone, and smell out the purveyors of hate — whether the particular brand be anti-semitism, Negro prejudice, Catholic bailing or venomous mudslinging in the French-English conflict.

"Breeders of hate are enemy No. 1 in Canada."

Police Trio Crime Plotters?

OTTAWA (CP) — Inspector of Detectives Gordon Hobbs and two other senior detectives were suspended by the Ottawa Police Commission Friday pending an investigation into charges that they helped plan a break-in at the home of an Ottawa man.

Magistrate Glenn Strike said a provincial police inspector will be in Ottawa sometime today to investigate charges that the three detectives helped plan a break-in at the home of Benjamin Achbar.

ENTERED HOME

The charge was made in magistrate's court Thursday by 33-year-old Royal Bard of South Hull, Que., who along with two others was nabbed by police when he entered the Achbar home.

Bard said in court that police helped him plan the crime in order to trap two other men. Bard, who had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary by Magistrate Joachim Sauve said he would withdraw the prison sentence if Bard's story is true.

BAIL SLASHED

Florian Lemieux, 36, Jean Guy Guindon, 30, both of Ottawa, the other men arrested in the Achbar home by police, were remanded in court Friday after pleading not guilty to charges of breaking and entering. Magistrate Sauve cut their bail from $10,000 to $100.

WILMINGTON, Calif. (UPI) — How an 18-year-old college psychology student followed a seven-point plot to kill his mother and father and make it appear as murder-suicide was described yesterday by police.

Police said they would seek a murder complaint against Fred Kipp Bassett, student at Long Beach State College, after they listened to his statement of admission and read the "script."

His plot called for him to "put G in M's hand," after the shooting during which he was to "wear plastic hood, leather gloves for shot."

"I'd been planning to kill them for years," detectives quoted him as saying.

"At first I was going to use a rolling pin. Then I thought an icepick would be better. I finally decided on a gun."

The deaths Thursday of Fred Bassett Sr., 47, and Mrs. Margaret Bassett, 43, at first were described by police as a murder-suicide. Police at first said Mrs. Bassett had shot her husband and then herself.

NOTE GAVE PLANS

But a note was found in the son's room outlining the murder plans.

He made his confession as deputies began to test his hands chemically to see if he fired the shots. He said the weapon used was a .22-calibre German-made Derringer purchased from a Torrance, Calif., gun dealer.

The suspect, jailed on suspicion of murder, said his father had been home all day working on insurance business in his study.

"When mother came home at 3:45 p.m., I told her to go into the bedroom and close her eyes. That I had a surprise for her," he told detectives. "I shot her in the head."

Blonde Lecturer Allowed to Stay

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Favreau announced in the Commons Friday night he has decided to allow Irene Rebrin to remain in Canada as a landed immigrant.

He said the move does not imply that any previous decision was improper in the case of the 36-year-old blonde lecturer in Slavonic languages at the University of British Columbia.

Miss Rebrin, born in China of White Russian parents, originally entered Canada in 1958 and was ordered deported in January, 1959.

LEGAL BATTLE

She subsequently lost a two-year legal battle in the Supreme Court of Canada against the federal deportation order.

Miss Rebrin, however, was allowed to stay in Canada because of other pending court actions in which she was involved, and also because there was no place to send her.

Meanwhile, the deportation case was again reviewed and Mr. Favreau announced Friday night his decision to let her stay as a landed immigrant.

The immigration minister said the case was "relatively complex" and involved "certain delicate factors."

"The review of the case is now complete," he said. "I have decided that Miss Rebrin should be admitted as a landed immigrant."

VISITOR'S VISA

The lecturer first arrived in Canada from Brazil on a visitor's visa that subsequently expired.

The deportation order was dated Jan. 22, 1959, and described her as a member of a class of persons prohibited entry to Canada as landed immigrants.

The deportation order was appealed through the British Columbia Supreme and Appeal courts and finally before the Supreme Court of Canada.

FACTS AS NOW

Mr. Favreau said the case had been decided on the basis of facts as they exist now. The decision should not be taken as reflecting on the previous decision.

He said he is aware that Miss Rebrin has a court case for libel pending against somebody and added that his decision
